Laughren Wins Mass Swim After Battle With Muir

By DENNY ROYD

Big Ben Laughren won $1,000 and further claim to his title of Endurance King of Juan de Fuca Strait Sunday in the first annual Junior Chamber of Commerce Mass Swim.

Laughren, 270-pounds and a 34-year-old father of three, stayed in the Strait waters for 10 hours, 15 minutes to outlast nine other starters and pick up first money by the margin of seven minutes over Saanich's popular swimming surveyor, Bill Muir, who lasted 10 hours, eight minutes and collected $750 for second prize.

Third money of $500 went to former Torontonian Janice White for a nine-hour, 56-minute swim while Billie Benedict made a strong showing and collected $250 for her six-hour, five-minute effort.

None of the other six starters was able to last more than 3½ hours, being forced to leave the water for a variety of reasons, running from the cold to nausea and cramps.

real was the only entrant who did not show up for the race.

Competitors and observers alike were unanimous in their praise of the organizational job done by the Jaycees and their co-sponsors, radio station CKDA.

The swim was well-run, went off without a hitch and officials already are making plans for a bigger and better swim next year.

As none of the swimmers succeeded in crossing the Strait, the entire purse of $6,000 was not awarded. There is a surplus of $3,500 which will be reserved for next year as the start of a pot that may be boosted to $15,000.

Next year's swim may be scheduled to fit in with the Atlantic City swim and the CNE swim in Lake Ontario. Such scheduling could make Victoria a worthwhile stop for competitors taking part in the other two big professional swims and create a swimming "gold trail" across the continent.

HERE IS BOX SCORE ON MASS STRAIT SWIM

Following is the official finishing list of competitors in the first annual Juan de Fuca Strait Mass Swim, the time they stayed in the water and the distance covered and money won by the top four:

2. Bill Muir—10 hrs., 8 mins.—9½ miles—$750.
3. Janice White—9 hrs., 56 mins.—8 miles—$500.
4. Billie Benedict—6 hrs., 5 mins.—6¾ miles—$250.
5. Anna Burian—3 hrs., 28 mins.
6. Anita Long—3 hrs., 8 mins.
7. Joan Biddle—2 hrs., 58 mins.
8. William Goll—1 hr., 25 mins.

$20 MILLION PULP MILL FOR PEACE RIVER AREA

VANCOUVER (CP)—Proposals for construction of a $20,000,000 pulp mill in the Peace River region of northeastern British Columbia were revealed by Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston today to guests travelling on the inaugural Pacific Great Eastern train from North Vancouver to Prince George.

Mr. Williston declined to identify the interested parties except to say they were large B.C. firms already engaged in the forest industry.

Contempt Action Underway Today

Sommers' Lawyer Denies He's Acting for Government

VANCOUVER (CP)—Application for a writ of attachment for committal for contempt of court was started in the B.C. Supreme Court here today against Deane Finlayson, Progressive Conservative leader.

Applications have also been made against the Vancouver Sun, its publisher Donald Cromie and a reporter, Frank Walden; and the Vancouver Herald and its publisher and editor-in-chief, Gerald M. Brown.

John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative member of parliament for Prince Albert, is appearing for Mr. Finlayson. The Sun is represented by Douglas McK. Brown and the Herald by Senator J. W. deB. and John Farris.

Alfred Bull, lawyer for R. E. Sommers, former minister of lands and forests in the Social Credit government, is applying for the writ and alleges that Mr. Finlayson was in contempt in reading to an election meeting the statement of defence in a slander suit brought by Mr. Sommers against David Sturdy, a Vancouver lawyer.

Mr. Bull outlined the legal history of the Sturdy-Sommers case to Mr. Justice A. M. Manson today and said:

"In these cases I do not as a rule take any personal part in the matter."

"But in this case some of the politicians have accused me of being a government lawyer and, by inference, some of the newspapers have even accused me of delaying the proceedings of the law because of the elections."

"I am not a government solicitor. I am solely counsel for Sommers and my one desire is to obtain for Mr. Sommers a fair trial of this issue which involves a criminal offence."

"In trying to obtain that object, I have not been influenced in the slightest by anything related to the election."

"I have never denied the right of the parties any criticism of the government with regard to the government's handling of what is called the 'Sommers-Sturdy affair'. That I would say is perfectly legitimate."

Mr. Bull then read a letter dated Aug. 14 which was sent to Mr. Finlayson warning him that if his position should be referred in his scheduled speech to the case.

The letter said that anything Finlayson might say with regard to the facts of the case would be in question of the rule of contempt. Any discussion of the fact whether set out in pleadings or not was bound to reach the jurors.

In the letter, Mr. Bull warned Finlayson that if he transgressed the rules in the slightest he had instructions from his client to take steps immediately to have him cited for contempt of court.

BANQUET TONIGHT

Jaycees will be the hosts tonight for a banquet and prize-giving ceremony for the swimmers at McEwen's Restaurant.

Big Ben, who has tried 11 times to make a complete Strait crossing, won his $1,000 purse on his tremendous endurance rather than his swimming ability.

Ben was far back in the early hours of the swim as the speedier entrants piled up leads.

But inexorably the Strait began to assert itself and flares streaking into the sky marked the toll that the swim was taking.

Under the pre-arranged rules, the swim could not be counted as official until it had passed the six-hour mark.

When that deadline was reached, four swimmers were in the water. Muir, making good time with his steady breaststroke, was maintaining

Canadian Newsman Expelled

(CP and BUP Dispatches)

TORONTO—William Stevenson, Toronto Star correspondent expelled from Egypt Sunday, said in a dispatch today that police had been seeking him for 24 hours since he had challenged a key man in the Egyptian propaganda department to deny he was a former Nazi.

Stevenson said the man was Prof. Johann von Leers, an assistant to Dr. Joseph Goebbels during the Nazi regime in Germany and who fled after the war to Argentina to work for the Peron administration. The Star said the professor admitted his identity.

Stevenson, Eileen Travis of Buffalo, N.Y., correspondent for the London Daily Mail, and Ann Sharpley of the London Evening Standard were ordered out of Egypt yesterday in the biggest crackdown against the press since the beginning of the Suez Canal crisis.

The Toronto star correspondent, whose home is in Hong Kong, said on his arrival at Rome from Cairo, that he had a one-hour interview with the propagandist who "graduated from Hitler to Peron of Argentina to Nasser."

"He was a former key figure in the Nazi propaganda machine of Dr. Goebbels and had been a hunted man for 10 years."

"At our interview the professor said Nasser was better than Hitler because Hitler wanted to do everything in his own lifetime, while Nasser was prepared to take his time."

"The Egyptians had denied his existence," Stevenson said. "But when they saw Ann Sharpley and me leaving his place, the trouble started."

CAIRO (AP)—Egypt will reply tomorrow to the Mendez committee request for talks on the Suez Canal crisis, an official Egyptian source said today.

Usually reliable sources said they understand Nasser will agree to meet the committee in Cairo with the proviso that Egypt is not obligated to accept the plan.

$8,500 Stolen

TORONTO (CP)—A Toronto-Dominion Bank shipment of $8,500 to Buffalo, N.Y., was looted two weeks ago, Ontario provincial police disclosed today.

Only clue to the theft has been a slit-open mail bag.

Lake Ontario Solo Ends After 28 Miles

NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE, Ont. (CP)—Marathon swimmer Jim Woods of Candler N.C., attempting to swim Lake Ontario, was pulled from the water after covering 28 of the 32 miles to Toronto's waterfront.

He jumped in the water here at 12:05 a.m. today (9:05 p.m. PDT) Sunday and was pulled out at 2:52 p.m. (11:52 PDT) about four miles from his goal. It was his fourth unsuccessful attempt in two years.

He had decided to make the attempt alone when the Lake Ontario marathon swim committee did not select him to take part in its race across the lake, scheduled to begin today.

Several other swimmers also uninvited to enter the race by the Lake Ontario marathon swim committee threatened to attempt the swim.

Meanwhile the threat of wet, windy weather today caused a three-hour postponement of the marathon swimming race across Lake Ontario.

Scheduled to send 10 screened swimmers thrashing across the 32-mile lake from Niagara-on-the-Lake at 3 p.m. EDT, (12 noon Victoria time) for $29,000 in cash prizes, it was postponed at noon to 6 p.m. (3 p.m. Victoria time).

The swim committee has ruled that in the event of unfavorable weather the race will be postponed day-to-day till Wednesday and then cancelled.

Premier's Train Waits for Crews To Clear Tracks

By NORMAN CRIBBENS, Times Legislative Reporter

ABOARD PGE INAUGURAL TRAIN—The blaring of a brass band had scarcely died away this forenoon when the Pacific Great Eastern's inaugural train over the 40-mile $10,500,000 North Vancouver-Squamish extension was halted by a rock and mud slide.

The slide, at Horseshoe Bay, 17 miles northwest of Vancouver, covered hundreds of feet of shiny new track.

PGE officials said it would take at least five hours to clear.

The blockade was reported only a few minutes after Premier W. A. C. Bennett had addressed a crowd of 3,000 at North Vancouver who came to watch three PGE inaugural specials pull out.

There were 300 guests aboard the trains, including the province's top government and business figures.

A battalion of newspaper, radio and TV men covering the inaugural run were 18 miles along the railroad when their special train was stopped because of the slide.

Premier Bennett's train was still at North Vancouver terminal when the slide came down.

The premier and his guests faced a delay until at least mid-afternoon.

The press train, which left at 9:30 a.m., got a rousing send-off from the crowd who had gathered to hear Premier Bennett's speech inaugurating the new railway link.

They waved flags and handkerchiefs, rent the air with noisemakers, and shouted farewells.

Just a few minutes earlier, C. R. Crysdale, consulting engineer with the PGE since it was begun in 1912, drove a copper spike marking completion of the last link in the Vancouver-Squamish section.

Premier Bennett, in black hat and grey overcoat, stood by, smiling triumphantly as with a hefty hammer stroke Mr. Crysdale drove the spike home.

Immediately afterwards rain fell heavily and many ran for shelter. But not Mr. Bennett.

"Ladies and gentlemen, boys and girls," he said, "This is a great day for us all—for you in North Vancouver, for those in the great north and for this government, which has fearlessly pushed this railroad through to completion."

"Next year we will have the railway running into the Peace River itself. And I hope that before too many years have gone by we shall be able, in cooperation with other governments on this continent, to extend the line into Alaska as well."

"This is the largest railway construction in all of North America in the last 30 years. It is paying great dividends now and will pay much greater dividends in years to come."

The premier, accompanied by members of his cabinet and their guests, drove in a motor parade from Vancouver court house to the North Vancouver terminus early today.

They were given a motorcycle escort through the streets by Royal Canadian Mounted Police and Vancouver city police force, the procession moving slowly through a crush of motorists on their way to work.

At North Vancouver the procession fell in behind a Sea Cadets band followed by detachments of boy and girl Air Cadets. It was a holiday in North Vancouver and householders gazed through drizzling rain at the passing parade or stood in their gardens.

Jet planes screamed overhead.

At the spike-driving ceremony Railway Minister W. R. T. Chetwynd was wearing one of the 40 Stetson hats he won in wagers when a "work train"

Smiling happily she said she is eager to get into a boat and accompany Cliff in the marathon.

WRIGHT DESIGNING MILE-HIGH BUILDING

SPRING GREEN, Wis. (AP)—Architect Frank Lloyd Wright said Saturday he is working on plans for a 510-storey, mile-high office building he hopes will be built on Chicago's lakefront.

If the structure becomes a reality, it will be the highest in the world, dwarfing such giants as the Empire State Building and the Chrysler Building in New York.

The world's tallest building now is the Empire State, measuring 1,250 feet and 1,472 feet with its TV antenna. The Chrysler building is 1,046 feet high.

Wright, world-famed, 87-year-old architect, said the building would house 100,000 employees of the State of Illinois, Cook County and the City of Chicago.

Runaway Bus Crushes BCE Driver to Death

(The Canadian Press)

VANCOUVER—A 43-year-old B.C. Electric bus driver was crushed to death between two buses here late Saturday.

William Knight died when he tried to stop an unattended runaway bus from striking a second bus parked ahead.

The accident occurred at the Kootenay Street loop, a transit-turn-around point in the city's east end.

Seven other persons died in B.C. mishaps during the week-end.

Three persons died in the wreckage of the crash between a car and light truck 28 miles from Prince George, while a fourth died in hospital. Two others were seriously injured.

The victims were identified as David Ellis, 27, of nearby Giscome; Albert Thompson, 17, and Merle Welsh, 23, both of Sylvania, Sask., and Leo J. Guillett, 40, of Prince George, father of eight.

In hospital are Mrs. Guillett and Joseph Raymond of Montreal.

Mrs. Angela d'Appalonia, 38, of Coleman, Alta., died from injuries suffered Friday when the car in which she and her husband, Edward, were travelling, collided with a loaded lumber truck at Crownsnest.

Mrs. Bertha Lavina Jensen, 47, of Vancouver, was found dead in her gas-filled apartment. Three burners on the stove were turned on but unlit.

FIRE SWEEPS BIG STORE

SALMON ARM—Fire swept a department store here Saturday despite the efforts of 100 volunteer firemen from this town and nearby communities.

There was no estimate of the exact loss but the two-story frame Safe Ltd. store was injured for $80,000, and fixtures and stock were valued at $155,000.

PILOT UNHURT IN CRASH

QUESNEL—A pilot was uninjured when his plane crashed and was wrecked 30 miles west of here Saturday.

The pilot, believed on a fishing trip from Seattle, reported the crash of his amphibious aircraft to civil air authorities.

He said he was unharmed and would remain with the wreck near Alexis Creek.

FERRY SERVICE TO END

VANCOUVER—The motor vessel Bonabelle, for many years in ferry service between Vancouver and West Vancouver, will make its last trip from Horseshoe Bay to Squamish Sept. 4.

It is bowing out in favor of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, which starts a passenger service to Squamish today.

THREE FLEE FIRE

VANCOUVER—Three persons escaped with minor injuries Sunday when fire raced through the third floor of an apartment block here.

Mrs. M. Holka, about 45, leaped three stories to the ground to escape the flames. She was taken to hospital suffering from burns to her arms and back.

A couple identified only as Mr. and Mrs. Willis, 70 and 69, also suffered minor injuries.

a 100-yard lead over Laughren and 300 yards back, Billie Benedict was leading Janice White by 30 yards.

$250 PRIZE

Billie, fighting leg cramps in an effort to last out the required time, passed the six-hour mark and came out five minutes later, assured of her $250 prize.

The many accompanying boats closed in around Bill and Ben, fighting a private duel of their own, with Janice, swimming a variety of strokes while feeding on bologna sandwiches, remained a quarter-mile behind the men.

By 3.30, the swimmers were almost abreast of Race Rocks and Muir was ahead of Laughren by 200 yards, with Janice a half-mile back. The water was flat and a warm sun shone down.

At 4.30, Ben made his bid. He put on a spurt, churning the water with his overhand crawl, and succeeded in pulling into first place for the first time in nine hours.

Laughren managed to stay just a few lengths ahead of Muir and the swim settled down to becoming a battle of nerves rather than a race.

At 5.22, Janice came out. She explained, "I wasn't making any progress and I knew I couldn't catch up for a first or second-place finish."

Thirteen minutes later, Muir signalled that he was quitting.

IN GOOD SHAPE

He was still in excellent shape and said, "Ben and I could have stayed out there all day, waiting each other out. But we weren't making any progress towards getting to Port Angeles so I made the decision. I wasn't going to bust myself for the sake of an extra $250."

Laughren stayed in another seven minutes, just to make it official, and then he came out of the water, 7½ miles from Port Angeles.

Marilyn Bell started the swim from Horseshoe Bay at 7.30 a.m. with a pistol shot and the 10 swimmers waded into the water, lined themselves up with their individual tender boats, and settled down to the grind.

Bill Goll, touted by Gus Ryder as the man to beat if he could take the cold, opened up an early lead with his beautifully perfected crawl.

The first flare went up after 57 minutes as Calgary's Robert Maslow gave in to cold and cramps and one minute later, Victorian Allan Small, with cramps in his legs, quit his unorthodox rolling sidestroke and left the swim.

Goll, no stranger to marathon swimming, was forced to give up his lead after one hour, 25 minutes as the cold penetrated his thick layer of grease compound and he was hauled out, shivering violently.

Then it was Anita Long, who had struck out on her own course and then Joan Biddle, who had assumed the lead until she, too, came out after two hours, 58 minutes. Anna Burlan, sickened by exhaust fumes, stuck it out for almost 3½ hours until forced to quit and that set the stage for the four money winners.

After the swim, Laughren,

Britain 'In Fix' Over Suez, Says Labor MP

If Eden takes Britain into war over the Suez Canal issue, the country will be split, Richard Crossman, British Labor MP, and journalist, said here today.

The prime minister "has put himself in a terrible fix" regarding Egypt's Nasser, he said.

There are only three possibilities for Britain on the canal: to use force as threatened, internationalization of the canal, or "a climb down."

Laboy's stand, he said, was that Nasser had to take the first step towards blocking the canal, "which he won't do," before Britain took aggressive action.

"Eden has been rescued by Dulles," he said on the internationalization.

Britain Bares Cyprus Prelate As Terror Chief

Helped Select Assassins' Victims

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain Sunday named the exiled Archbishop Makarios as the mastermind of Union-With-Greece terrorism in Cyprus.

The government said he actually was involved in the "choice of individual victims for murder" in a terrorist campaign in which 145 persons have died on the strategic Mediterranean island.

Colonial Secretary Alan Lennox-Boyd said several thousand documents captured from the EOKA terrorist organization "prove beyond any doubt whatever" that the leader of the Greek Orthodox Church in Cyprus is the leader of the campaign to unite Cyprus with Greece.

The colonial secretary said these documents establish that George Grivas, a former Greek army officer believed to be the EOKA leader under the name of "Digenis," has been acting under the personal direction of Makarios.

Makarios has been exiled by Britain to the Seychelles islands in the Indian ocean.

The statement said that the documents, captured near Famagusta, include portions of a Grivas' personal diary.

AIDED SMUGGLERS
Extracts now published, the statement continued, "established beyond all doubt:

"That Archbishop Makarios personally took a leading part in the foundation and initial operation planning of the EOKA organization."

"That he personally provided money for the smuggling of arms into Cyprus which were to be used for the murder of his fellow countrymen and members of the (British) security forces."

The colonial secretary added: "Much of the criticism to which I and my colleagues have been subjected about the treatment and the deportation of Archbishop Ma-

Trans-Pacific Plane Forced To Turn Back

VANCOUVER (CP)—A four-engine plane with 30 passengers aboard, including Australian External Affairs Minister Richard Casey, was forced to return Sunday to Vancouver's International airport on three engines.

The Canadian Pacific Airlines plane, bound for Honolulu, left Vancouver at 3 p.m. PDT and returned more than two hours later. Crash equipment was standing by at the airport when it landed safely.

A CPA spokesman said the fourth engine in the DC6B aircraft was shut off by the pilot because a meter showed its power to be below standard.

The passengers boarded another aircraft and continued their flight at 7:45 p.m. Mr. Casey is en route home after attending the international conference on the Suez Canal in London.

Cowichan Roads Will Form Arterial Highway

CHEMUNUS—Reeve C. A. P. Murison announced today a portion of the old Island Highway will be incorporated into a new provincial highway linking Lake Cowichan and Crofton Ferry Road.

The reeve reported the new arterial highway would connect Cowichan Lake Road, all of Herd Road, down the Trans-Canada Highway to Mt. Sicker Road, Mt. Sicker Road to Pinson's Corner and Pinson's Corner to the Crofton Road and the ferry wharf.

The reeve also announced that as a result of the municipality's protest on the proposed route of the B.C. Power Commission's power line from the new plant at Burr Point, the commission has agreed to move the line south about 1,000 feet. It will now pass through a rural instead of residential area.

TRAINING IN CANADA FOR GERMAN AIRMEN?

BADEN-SOELLINGEN, Germany (CP) — The Canadian government is giving consideration to the possibility of training German pilots in Canada, says Defence Minister Ralph Campney.

Campney, on a tour of Canadian defence establishments in Europe, made the statement on Saturday at a press conference attended mainly by German reporters. The German correspondents wanted to know about Canadian plans to replace four of the Sabre jet squadrons in France and Germany with CF-100 jet all-weather interceptors and details of the gift of 15 Canadian Sabres worth $39,000,000 to the German Air Force.

Campney said the Sabres will be ready for transfer about the end of the year. The United States Air Force already is training German aircrew and it is understood NATO wants Canada to train German pilots under its NATO aircrew training program.

Admitted Killer, in Jail 10 Years, Had Unfair Trial, Lawyer Claims

MONTREAL (CP) — Arthur Maloney, Toronto lawyer, has submitted a report to Justice Minister Garson urging immediate release of Louis Bercovitz, of Montreal, now serving a life sentence for the 1946 shooting of underworld boss Harry Davis.

The Montreal Herald says the 25,000-word report urged the release on the grounds that Bercovitz was convicted at an "unfair trial."

In Toronto, Mr. Maloney said that he was acting on behalf of Mrs. Bercovitz and not in his capacity as secretary of the Canadian Bar Association's committee on the administration of criminal justice. However, he said, he appended his committee title to the report sent to Ottawa. In Ottawa, the office of Justice Minister Garson said the Maloney submission was received today and will be studied by the minister on his return from holidays later this week.

Mr. Maloney said the report was the result of a year-long investigation of the case.

Bercovitz, now 47, was originally charged with murder in the revolver slaying of Davis in a downtown gambling house. The jury reduced the charge to one of manslaughter.

Bercovitz admitted shooting Davis, but claimed at his trial that he did so in self-defence when the gambler pulled a gun on him.

Mr. Maloney said the report charged grave irregularities in the trial. It charged Mr. Justice Wilfrid Lazure with misdirecting the jury, pointed to changes in testimony tantamount to perjury by a chief Crown witness and felt vital evidence had been "unfairly withheld" from the jury.

2. Assuming that the cars' brake lights are not lit, you should have circled the second car. In traffic you often have to figure out what the driver ahead is going to do while other things are distracting you.
3. The second and fifth signs are alike. The lesson learned in Answer 1 applies here too.

Safe driving is more than an art. It's a state of mind. It's you when you're alert. You see what's on the road ahead; automatically you know how to handle any situation. It's you when you're courteous. You have the right of way, but you yield it. It's you when you drive a safe car. Above all, therefore, safety is a full-time job—and Shell hopes you'll think it's a worthwhile job. ## The Central Engine

CANADA IS ATTEMPTING AT the moment to keep a great boom under reasonable control, to hold down prices and prevent a bust later on.

But actually the great forces of inflation or deflation are not in our control. They arise in the American economy next door and instantly spread, for better or worse, across the border and into the four corners of the earth. For the American economy is now the central engine of the world economy.

For that reason the world in general and Canada in particular (because our economy is so intimately linked with that of our neighbors) are vitally concerned in the fiscal debate launched at the American political conventions.

While it may have been lost in the rush and overshadowed by the eloquence of Mr. Stevenson, a statement made by Mr. Truman at the Democratic convention was of the highest importance.

He said he knew more about the finances of the American Government than any man alive and went on to denounce the Eisenhower administration for raising interest rates. As a result of this increase, he said, the cost of supporting the national debt had risen from about $5 billions to about $7 billions a year—a heavy burden on the taxpayers.

At the same time, said Mr. Truman, the little man anxious to build a house, or the little businessman wishing to expand his business, had to pay unnecessarily high prices for borrowed money. All this, in Mr. Truman's opinion, is a sample of the Republican Party's brutal treatment of the poor and its championship of the rich.

It is difficult to conceive a more irresponsible statement from a statesman who, in office, made some of the greatest and wisest decisions in American history. But then, Mr. Truman was never notable for economic knowledge.

After the war he pursued an inflationary policy, fearing a great depression, and the great boom and the great inflation quickly followed. Soon he was attempting to hold down prices by direct and unwelcome controls while increasing the money supply and generating more inflation.

Actually the Republican administration's management of the money system has been its largest single achievement to date. The stability of prices, until a few months ago, did not occur by accident. It came mainly from the wise policies of the Federal Reserve Board and the President's refusal to interfere with that non-political agency. Mr. Eisenhower never did a wiser or more courageous thing than when he allowed the Board to raise interest rates—over the protest of Republican politicians—even though this raised the current cost of the public debt.

The Board was right in foreseeing inflation last spring, and the politicians, including the able secretary of the treasury, Mr. Humphrey, was wrong in predicting the opposite.

All that is water over the dam. The question now is whether the Democratic Party will follow Mr. Truman in his attack on interest rates and his demand for a policy certain to generate more inflation.

While it is not for Canadians to meddle in American domestic politics, the credit policies stemming out of the present election are certain to affect us immediately. We shall inherit the American price level through our daily trade with the United States. Inflation or deflation will pay no attention to the imaginary political line of the border.

A Canadian government can only do its best in this continental and world-wide problem. It cannot isolate this country from the continental economy. And here, as in the United States, any government which undertakes the sound, unpleasant remedies needed to maintain the value of the dollar is bound to incur the same sort of criticism that Mr. Truman and others are now leveling at the American Government.

The Best Candidate

THE LEADERS OF THE C.C.F. and the Liberal Party both reject as quite impractical the suggestion that they should make election deals in various British Columbia constituencies to avoid splitting the Opposition's vote.

No doubt this proposal, advanced by Mr. Moore, a former C.C.F. member of the Legislature, is impractical; not only impractical but unsound, since the C.C.F. and the Liberal Party are not in agreement on basic policies.

Mr. Moore knows that, of course. As we understand it, he does not suggest anything like a joint approach to the election but only that in certain ridings, where an outstanding C.C.F. or Liberal candidate is running, the voters who are opposed to the Government should forget their party views for the moment and unite behind that candidate and elect him.

Various possibilities of this sort will come immediately to mind in the constituencies of Victoria and the Island. Candidates like Mr. Gregory and Mr. Gibbs, for example, will certainly receive many votes that, under other conditions, would go to the C.C.F. In other places many normally Liberal voters will probably support a C.C.F. candidate without accepting C.C.F. policies, rather than splinter the Opposition's strength and assure a minority Social Credit victory.

As Mr. Strachan and Mr. Laing have said, these things cannot be arranged from the top and no attempt should be made to arrange them. But party leaders do not control the great mass of voters, even those friendly to them. The average voter will make up his own mind and he will remember that this election is by no means normal or orderly.

Mr. Bennett has made sure that it would be abnormal by calling it before the public can hear certain vital evidence about the Government. The division of the Opposition has made the election so disorderly that the Government could easily win a large legislative majority on a minority vote.

Under these conditions it is to be expected that any Opposition candidate who obviously has a good chance of election will receive support from voters who may not agree altogether with his party's policy but are determined to register an effective protest against the Government. The reputation of the individual candidate is likely to play a much larger part than usual in this chaotic election.

The End of Steel

TODAY'S FORMAL OPENING OF the southern extension of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway marks an important step in the life of the provincially owned line. Prince George now has direct rail connection with North Vancouver, the booming central region of British Columbia has a steel tie with the coastal metropolitan area.

What this means in convenience is obvious. What it may mean economically has yet to be proved although the ultimate growth of the province augurs a good future.

But today's railroading ceremonies are overshadowed by the political implications of the event. It can hardly be a coincidence that the official opening, and the triumphal journey over the whole length of the line, with stops for speeches at every water tank and hamlet, were planned in the midst of a hot election campaign.

For some, the brilliance of the occasion may help to hide more serious aspects of the election. If this is so, the rest of the province may consider itself as the financier of an election appeal on the grand scale. Premier Bennett is to be complimented on today's achievement. But it is unfortunate that so important an event has been converted into a political spectacle. The PGE, after all its years of struggle, deserves more than this.

May Others Take Warning

A YEAR IN PRISON IS A stiff sentence for any youth. Yet the penalties imposed on two young men last week for acts of vandalism in Beacon Hill Park are not extreme in view of the offence. It is to be hoped that in this case particularly the punishment will act as a deterrent to others who may be tempted.

Quite apart from the cost of repairs and replacements, the destruction of public property in a park is a serious offence. It is obviously impossible to guard every part of a park day and night. It is disturbing to think that such protection should be necessary.

To smash more than a hundred dollars worth of glass in a lookout built mainly for the comfort and convenience of elderly folk is a despicable thing. It is far beyond a childish prank; it is the act of a person who is stupid to the point of public danger. There has been too much of this sort of thing in Victoria.

The police are to be congratulated for their prompt work in apprehending at least two of the culprits. May others inclined toward destruction take warning.

When Handing Out the Old Baloney

THE TOUCH OF MAGIC

By B. A. TOBIN

Why the Crowds Turned Out

OF COURSE, if you want to be scientific and logical about it, all the fuss over Marilyn Bell was pretty silly. Imagine all those thousands of people rushing out of their houses with the supper dishes not washed and crawling over rocks and clay cliffs to watch a little girl from another city swim in to a not very attractive beach and then go away again in a row-boat. Stripped down to the bare physical facts the whole proceeding was crazy and each person over 18 in that huge crowd ought to get a red face every time he thinks of it.

But, as in so many other phases of life, the bare physical facts were the least important part of the whole event. The few minutes of drama—the splashing little arrival and the quick departure into the dusk—were only the stage setting for something much greater.

The scene itself could be described in a paragraph or two. The spirit of the thing, the real essence of it, might take a book. For tied up in that brief encounter were all the vast qualities that make man more than an animal; that make history more than a procession of dates and facts, that make humanity worth preserving.

The inner core of it was the magic secret—that man has preserved down through the ages—the spark that was struck dim eons ago in some throbbing breast, jealously guarded through generations of cave and pastoral civilization, flowering in such stirring eras as those of Egypt, Greece and Rome, hoarded through the dark night of the Middle Ages, rising in the colorful days of Elizabeth and Victoria, and now facing perhaps its greatest test in a world of robots, super-organization and atomic energy.

This Alone. It is this spark alone that will save man from becoming a robot himself, fit only to take his place in line with the mechanical monsters he has created. It is this tiny flame alone that will maintain light and warmth for the world in the cold, cosmic night that surrounds it. What is this spark, this flame?

It is the miraculous ability to see beyond material things; to perceive greatness in the mundane, and glory in the great. That appreciation may be roused by big events: the Londoner striding through his battered streets a dozen years ago walked proudly, for the glory was upon him. It may rise in a welling of emotion at the crowning of a Queen, for every phase of our monarch's coronation was touched with the magic. At the other extreme it may be stirred by a freckle-faced youngster paddling ashore to conquer the tides and waves of a cold strait.

For the common element in all these events was of the spirit. Could you describe survival in the Battle of Britain merely as not having any bricks fall on you? Is a coronation the act of placing a piece of metal on a person's head? Was the conquest of Everest merely a walk up hill? Was Marilyn's crossing of the Strait merely a girl swimming 18 miles?

On whatever level of human importance these acts may be placed, each contained within itself the seeds of glory. Though the mechanical eye of a camera would see in them only material facts, the human eye can peer deeper and recognize a radiance that reduces the facts to mere background.

Thus the cheering thousands on the shore the other evening were rendering tribute to things of the spirit—they were there to applaud courage, determination, the pluck of man in the frailty of a girl, the victory of a beating heart over the inanimate sea.

For each man, woman and child there it was a personal victory. Marilyn did not win alone, she won as their representative.

In Miniature

Ever since man first stood erect and dared the storm on his rocky hilltop the struggle with nature has gone on. In the last analysis it can be won only by his inner quality, and the Strait victory was a microcosm of that age-old struggle. Therefore those crowds were not foolish. They were playing a scene from the life of our race, a fragment of the drama that has been going on since the dawn of human existence and will continue until the final curtain.

That final scene may be a grim one. It will depict the last survivor perhaps in a sudden inferno of nuclear annihilation or in the frozen silence of a dead solar system millions of years hence. But if the human spark is still kept alive, if the magic secret is still guarded, his last look will be upward, his last gasp one of defiance. And somewhere in the cosmos the watching hosts of countless generations of man will pay him tribute.

As Our Readers See It

Grain of Salt

There is a 50 million dollar investment in autos and trucks in Victoria and district, 4% of which is $2,000,000, which is the amount of the damage this investment will suffer, by the City Engineer's computation, if salt is used to thaw snow on Victoria's streets, to save how much—a few thousand dollars a year at most.

J. P. THORNTON.

943 Wilmer street.

Foreign Monopolies

If you are not worried over this new economic feudalism, you stand almost alone.

Your rival on Nov. 5, 1955, headlined "BCFP Sells Control to U.S." In the article following wrote: "The big deal between Scott and the B.C. Forest Products is the third in the past three years."

On page 12 of the B.C. Bureau of Economics and Statistics Summary of Business Activity, 1955: "Early in November, 1954, the New York firm of Rayonier Inc., purchased 80 per cent interest in Alaska Pine and Cellulose."

I would like your honest opinion on these sellouts of our resources to United States interests and whether these monopolies by foreign capital are not a danger to our democratic freedoms and to our national independence.

FRANK SNOWSELL.

Strait Records

Without detracting from Miss Marilyn Bell's magnificent swim one iota, it seems as though the newspapers have overlooked two facts and thereby deprived Canada of a swim record.

The papers have consistently lumped Miss Bell's south-to-north crossing with Mr. Cliff Lumsdon's north-to-south crossing of the Juan de Fuca and come up with the decision that Miss Bell holds the record crossing.

This, of course, is true in a "stop-watch" sense but does not deal with reality.

Mr. Lumsdon is the only man in the world to have swum the Strait from Victoria to Port Angeles. His time, therefore, cannot be compared with any other swim because no one, except him, has made that swim.

In our humble opinion it will be some time before his feat is equalled. And when it is, it will be by another male swimmer of the same stature.

As for Miss Bell, her record stands on its own merit. She is the first swimmer to swim from Port Angeles proper to Victoria proper. She holds the record time.

Or, to make our point, Miss Bell's swim and Mr. Lumsdon's swim are two different swims, just as the France-to-England swim is adjudged differently from the England-to-France swim.

In the matter of the Juan de Fuca Strait both records are held by Canadians who were in no sense competitors.

PHILIP LEE.

Dual Nature

Although Mr. H. V. O'Reilly does not name the man of science who defended religion he appears to resent his doing so.

The word science, he tells us, is derived from Latin scire to know. It therefore means knowledge and includes the highest of all knowledge, religion, which is founded on Divine Revelation through Christ whose life, death, and resurrection, have been well authenticated and acknowledged for centuries.

Physical science concerns material things and is useful in its place, as we know, but it must not be deified.

Religion relates to God, the soul, the intelligence, the will, moral conduct, eternal destiny, spiritual things. Physical science is organized knowledge of material things. Each has its place in the dual nature of man and they ought to be as united as the soul and the body among men.

F. E. BROWNE.

Glorious Battle

Churchill would, I know, honor the quote of his words "Blood, Sweat and Tears," for on the streets, the cliffs and the hills of Victoria we saw history in the making, and a glorious battle fought and won by Marilyn Bell as her heart, mind and body transcended every obstacle to put Canada on the map in a demonstration of courage rarely witnessed in one so young.

M. WORTHINGTON-LAKE.

851 Maddison street.

Afraid of Oblivion

Readers of our daily papers must be blind if they don't observe the growing space religious subjects occupy.

Only a few years ago, very little space was given to religious propaganda; now hardly a page is devoid of some article of a religious nature.

Seldom does an issue of any city paper appear without the picture of a priest, bishop or preacher of some sort either alone or with some legislative gathering or convocation.

To say religion, particularly Roman subversion is not on the march with its victory banners held high aloft is contrary to the true situation.

Wake up you democratic dreamers, you rationalist sleepers, before the medieval religious battle-axe falls to bring you once again complete oblivion.

CANDID.

Eatanswill

Your correspondent Norman Cribbens makes fun of Social Crediters in Saanich by comparing them to the famous characters in Charles Dickens' Pickwick Papers. (See The Times of Aug. 18.)

I would remind him that the same chapter in this book, which was about the Eatanswill election, also makes fun of political journalists.

The Eatanswill Gazette referred to the Eatanswill Independent as "our reptile contemporary," whilst the Independent denounced The Gazette as "our degraded contemporary, wallowing in the slime of its editorial degradations."

Whilst The Times and the Colonist do not abuse each other in such terms, it may be noted that a certain swimming contest promoted recently by The Times has been repeatedly discredited by its contemporary The Daily Colonist, apparently because the Daily Colonist had no part in the promotion of this contest.

The Pickwick analogy, is not confined to followers of political parties—it goes farther and deeper.

No Marilyn Monroe

BY JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP, From San Francisco

ONE thing the Republican Convention which has just ended here has proved beyond dispute. The best professional techniques of the admen and the electronics experts are no substitute for the unique, peculiar and traditional American political processes. For weeks before the convention opened, there was a great deal of talk about how the Republican convention—this year was to be something entirely new, a clean break with tradition. This year, the convention was not to be the usual messy and unpredictable chaos.

It was to be, instead, a production, a show, professionally staged, and designed, like any major television production, to beguile, and persuade the millions at their television sets. There was to be an absolute minimum of the traditional cliché-ridden politician oratory. There was to be an absolute maximum of pretty girls, pageants, performances, and general electronic hoop-la.

Substitutions. To hear the Republican impresarios talk, you would have thought that the politicians were to be almost entirely shunted aside in favor of, say, Mrs. Marilyn Monroe Miller, or Miss Kim Novak, or other proven attractions. In the event, instead of Marilyn Monroe, the televisioners got Mrs. Elphie Sjuln of Iowa, mother of nine and grandmother of twenty-five.

Mrs. Sjuln spoke, and very nicely too, for exactly ninety seconds, on the subject of "Morality." She was one of fifteen ladies who appeared on something called "The Women Speak," which was typical of the kind of "production" the Republican impresarios talked about so confidently.

Each of the fifteen ladies (one for each letter of the word "Republican") was accompanied by a young girl bearing a placard spelling out the chosen subject. The girls were pretty, but only fairly pretty, because they were volunteers, not professionals.

Some of the ladies spoke their pieces very well. But they were, for the most part, exactly like lady orators at any convention, with their iron curls, their sometimes quavering fervor, their impressive corsages, and their habit of bobbing their heads as if admonishing naughty children.

Quavering Fervor

Some of the ladies spoke their pieces very well. But they were, for the most part, exactly like lady orators at any convention, with their iron curls, their sometimes quavering fervor, their impressive corsages, and their habit of bobbing their heads as if admonishing naughty children. The harsh fact is that "The Women Speak" and the other productions dreamed up by the impresarios, were something less than electrifying, and a far cry from Marilyn Monroe. And the further harsh fact is that politics and the professional techniques of the advertising, entertainment, and television industries do not really mix very well.

They do not mix well because the main participants at any political occasion are not entertainers but politicians, which is a very different breed of cat. George Murphy, the Hollywood actor who rather frantically directed the convention proceedings, acknowledged as much in a chat with one of these reporters.

Trap Door

Some day, he said, conventions would be run as they ought to be, in a proper theatre, with proper direction and control. Meanwhile, he said, he would be happy to settle for an automatic trap door to get rid of the politicians who insisted on speaking too long.

Even without his trap door, Murphy and the other able professionals from the communications industry, did succeed in making the convention run more smoothly than usual. But the fact remains that the convention was a tooth-aching bore, at least until the final climactic moment of the President's acceptance speech.

It was a tooth-aching bore partly because the outcome was foreordained, and there was none of the conflict and suspense which lends to the American political convention its peculiar fascination. But it was a bore also, in part, just because it was too smoothly run, and lacked the unpredictable messiness which also lends flavor to a convention.

New Kind

All this suggests a lesson which the Republican high command might well ponder. Even before the President's illness, the word was passed at Republican headquarters that the campaign to follow the new kind of convention would also be a new kind of campaign.

Instead of the usual frantic beating of the bushes for voters, the strategy would centre on the techniques of the communications industry—five-minute spots, saturation campaigns, carefully planned full-length shows, and so on, with the President's role limited to a half dozen or so television appearances.

Obviously, television and the new communications techniques have introduced an important new element into American politics. But the experience of this convention clearly suggests that the new techniques are no adequate substitute for the old. And this in turn suggests that before very long the pressure on the President to take the stump, in the old traditional way, will be very heavy indeed.

A WOMAN'S OUTLOOK

Carefree

Because of the peculiar ways of papers, I'm writing this on the Thursday before you read it.

It's not the column that I meant to write because the day hasn't been the way I planned it.

The morning was so pleasant and so cool after Wednesday's heat, that I made the mistake of dawdling outdoors instead of rushing around with household tasks.

I dawdled while I picked Early Transparents for apple sauce. I dawdled while I sat outside cutting them up.

I picked far more Scarlet Runner beans than I meant to simply because it was cool and sweet in the vegetable garden and the view down the valley was lovely. I dawdled over slicing them because it was a task I could do outside.

Then, rather than leave the delight of being out of doors, I went up the hill and picked enough blackberries for a good big pie.

Then, for half an hour or so, I helped sack up some potatoes. And all the time, I knew that I should be scurrying so that I'd have time for a column. I'd do it in the afternoon, I told myself.

But, in the afternoon, some friends from the interior arrived quite unexpectedly. Not having seen them for nearly 20 years, I thought to heck with the column. I'll do it after supper.

So we had cups of coffee instead and talked about camping places on the island. They'd all disappeared, my friends said.

For years they'd told the children about some of the places where they used to camp by rivers and beaches. They'd come down with sleeping bags and tent. But the old haunts had gone.

The forest on one stretch of road had been cut. The trail that used to lead down through the woods to the beach must have disappeared when the woods were cut. Several other old camping spots were fenced off, or had signs of private property.

At one of the provincial parks there wasn't a campsite left. They'd thought of going to Miracle Beach, but they'd been told that it was hopelessly overcrowded, and so they'd turned south again at Qualicum.

In other words, their trip had been a failure, and they were leaving the island two days sooner than they'd meant to.

I only pass this on in the hope that, somehow, in the next few years more money can be spent on developing campsites. The parks people know the need for them, but I sometimes wonder whether the general public realizes that the need for them will grow as the years go by and our population increases.

I meant to start the column the moment that my friends had gone, but by then it was time for milking and supper.

And, when they were over, I wanted to hear the finish of the Marilyn Bell swim. And after that, two different sets of people came in.

As an outdoor, casually social day, it's been a lot of fun. As a column-writing day, it's been a total failure.

But, somehow, when the mornings and evenings are so beautiful, I just can't take writing seriously.

Writing belongs to the winter months. It seems to have no place in the pagan months of summer.

Which is a hopeless attitude to take. I must stop being so carefree.

But, honestly, do you feel like working when the weather's summery and fine?

Pocket Books Grow Up

LONDON—Pocket-sized books have just come of age. Today stacks of these little, inexpensive paper-backs are a commonplace in drugstores, at railway stations and so on. But before 1935 they didn't exist.

It was Sir Allen Lane who got the idea for them and printed the first ones—Penguins—in the crypt of a church on London's Euston road. Production at that time wasn't regular—the printing machines had to be silenced when a service was held up above.

I remember when the first Penguins came out, at what seems now the ridiculously low price of sixpence. The price of these editions has crept up with the rising cost of living. One shilling just after the war, 1s 6d in 1950 and now most of the latest ones are 3s.

But although they're now six times the price they used to be the public still seems to regard them as a bargain, for they are churned out of the Penguin plant now at the fantastic figure of 300,000 a day—seven and a half tons of them are sent out to the book-shops every day.

Such things as pocket books and the numerous other similar editions on the other side of the Atlantic appeared several years after the initial success in this country of Penguins, just as America trailed along after Britain had introduced tabloid newspaper, television, etc.

Even when you're doing nothing, do you know how busy you are? Professor A. M. Low says that even if you decide to have a lazy Sunday at home you'll do all these things: perspire 1.43 points, breathe 23,400 times while taking in 438 cubic feet of air; your blood will travel 168,000,000 miles and your heart will beat 103,389 times.

Author Evelyn Waugh, seeking a larger place for his family of six children, is selling his Gloucestershire home, Piers Court—including the notice on the front door—"No admission on business."

Pioneer in the fight against television keeping former customers at home and out of the pubs is Mrs. Peggy Hoare, manageress of The George in Slough, just outside London. She has introduced pub floor shows. Different acts are booked from London each week.

Other publicans are watching the experiment and if it continues to be as successful as it has so far they are likely to follow this idea of getting back their customers with live entertainment. I don't know how it works out in Canada but fighting fire with fire (i.e., installing television in bars) doesn't work out here.

Those who go to a pub for a social drink and conversation want "the confounded thing turned off" and those who want to watch it get annoyed at anyone talking or spoiling their view. It will take some years yet for television to find its proper place within the English way of life. Meantime, floor shows in a pub are a pleasant novelty—for those who live around Slough at any rate.

WELSH ALBERTANS
Over North Pole

LONDON (CP)—With Welsh hymns on their lips, some 60 Albertans, most of them of Welsh origin, left early today on a trip back home across the North Pole.

"We'll lull ourselves to sleep with a song in our hearts," said Jack Jones of Edmonton, who carried a yellow ribbon in his wallet saying "song leader."

He was ready to pin it to his lapel at the sound of a hum or a hymn.

And waving farewell at London airport to the Canadians, returning to Edmonton in a chartered Canadian Pacific Air Lines plane after a seven-week visit to Britain, were several Welsh girls in national costume. They, too, were singing.

PLANE WRECKAGE
REPORT PERSISTS

PORT ALBERNI, B.C. (CP)—Wreckage of a plane, possibly one lost during the second World War, has been reported in a wooded area between Nitinat Lake and Cowichan Lake on the southwestern portion of Vancouver Island.

Paint Plant Names
On Garden Sticks

There is a group of summer flowering plants with names so similar that it is not easy to keep them in order mentally. The easiest way to be sure of them is to paint the name in black on a white painted stick and place near each plant, to familiarize oneself with various names day by day.

The group referred to is helianthus, helianthemum (sunrose), helianthus (sunflower) and heliopsis. The only easy part to remember is that "heli" is derived from the Greek word helios meaning the sun. Thus helianthemum is the sun-rose from the resemblance of the flower to a tiny rose.

This is the hardy trailing perennial plant with narrow evergreen leaves which flowers so profusely in summer on dry sunny banks. Colors include pink, yellow, red, white and intermediates.

SEVERAL SPECIES

Helianthus is the sunflower (anthos being Greek for flower) and may be either annual or perennial in habit. The giant annual sunflower is helianthus, and there are several native perennial species in North America. The Jerusalem artichoke is helianthus tuberosus.

Heliopsis is another of the sunflower group, its name meaning resembling the sun. This group contains only perennials, also native of North America. Many fine varieties are useful in the garden, such as heliopsis scabra var. patula, height three to four feet.

Helenium, perhaps the best known of this group with the similar names, is recognized by its high cone centres and somewhat reflexed petals. Sturdy perennials growing from three

Run of Tuna
Stalled Off
Oregon Coast

Current run of tuna which B.C. fishermen had hoped would reach Vancouver Island's west coast appears to have stalled off the Oregon and Washington coast.

But reports of tuna off Point Estevan are still being investigated by the fisheries patrol vessel Kittimat.

Kittimat arrived on the fishing grounds Friday morning. Water conditions are reported as suitable for tuna but no fish have been sighted or caught.

All Canadian fishboats in the area are after salmon, and none have sighted tuna.

GOOD RUN

Nevertheless, the run in northern U.S. waters is one of the best in years, and fishermen are hoping it will work its way up the coast.

An Associated Press despatch from Astoria, Oregon, says tuna fishermen are putting to sea in increasing numbers along Washington and Oregon coasts as an apparently big run of albacore tuna headed northward.

The Columbia River Packers' vessel, Kiska, which was first to report the tuna, wirelessed a message that it was still taking them in quantity.

The Kiska said fishing boats were at work in all directions as far as the crew could see. Kiska is about 80 miles off the coast.

From Monterey, Calif., fishermen reported catches of 500 a day, and the north end of the big run appeared to be passing Astoria.

Battle Dance was second and Cold Command third.

Hula Boola, an entry with favored Count Chic, owned by Seattle restaurateur Dino Luzzi, returned $5.50, $4.10 and $3.20.

Battle Dance paid $10.50 and $6.90 and Cold Command $7.50.

Major Speed, ridden by veteran Johnny Longden who flew here from Del Mar, finished last in the field of 11.

CANADIAN TEAM

Tobacco Selected For Olympics

HAMILTON (CP) — Only eight of 250 athletes equalled or bettered the Olympic standards at the two-day Olympic trials and Canadian track and field championships. On this showing, Canada can expect too much in the 1956 games.

The eight, including Terry Tobacco of Cumberland, were among 16 men and women representing seven provinces selected Saturday to carry the country's track and field hopes at the Olympic Games in Australia next November.

The results were disappointing. Officials of the Canadian Olympic Committee had to go below the standards it set to get a full complement. The standards were taken from the sixth place finishers in the 1952 Olympics.

On the men's team will be Toronto's East York's men's sprint relay group, Stan Levenson, Joe Foreman, Jack Parrington and Dick Harding; Ken Money, Winnipeg and Ferris, Ont., high jumper; Doug Kyles, Estevan, Sask., 5,000 and 10,000 metres; Tobacco, Cumberland, B.C., 400 metres and 1,600-metre relay; Murray Cockburn, Toronto, 400 and 800 metres and 1,600-metre relay; Laird Sloan, Montreal, 400 metres and 1,600-metre relay; Doug Clement, Vancouver, 800 metres and 1,600-metre relay.

The women's team: Margaret George, Mervin, Sask.; Javelin; Jackie MacDonald, Toronto, shot-put and discus; Diane Matheson, Montreal, 100 and 200 metres and 400-metre relay; Eleanor Haslam, Saskatoon, Sask., 100 and 200 metres and 400-metre relay; Maureen Revere, Regina, 100 and 200 metres, 400-metre relay and broad jump; Dorothy Kozak, Calgary, broad jump and 400-metre relay.

During the competition, Kyles, Money, Tobacco (37.9 in the 400 metres), Cockburn, Miss MacDonald and Miss George broke standards in final events. Levenson and Harding hit the requirements in 100-metre heats.

Alice Whitty of Vancouver, was considered as the sixth woman team member after she won the high jump but was deferred for Miss Kozak to Canada could be represented in the 400-metre relay. The Canadian track and field committee will ask the COA to increase the women's team to seven members.

Fernwood, Bays Enter Pee Wee Boxla Finals

Fernwood and Oak Bay both scored upset victories over two Saanich teams on Saturday to enter the Victoria Minor Lacrosse Association pee-wee finals.

Oak Bay downed Saanich Tigers 14, in one game, while Fernwood upset league-champion Saanich Greens by an identical 14 score in the other match.

The victories gave both teams two straight games in the best-of-three semifinals.

Final series begin Sept. 4 at Stevenson Park.

Fernwood — Joe Thompson 4, Brian Skovron 2, Brian Borg 2, Total 7.

Oak Bay — Paul Wade 2, Glen Vickers 2, Paul Dairmont, Jack Truman, Mike Summers, Total 7.

FIRES BLISTERING 62

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UP) — One of the most brilliant finishes the pro golf world has seen in recent years gave big Mike Souchak the St. Paul open golf championship, but he never would have made it except for a "sure shot" that missed.

The pinch shot was a five-foot putt needed by little Jerry Barber, of Los Angeles, to tie Souchak on the last hole. He

Riders Win; Als Edge Argonauts

By The Canadian Press

A crowd of 32,000 — a Canadian record for a regular schedule game — is expected in Vancouver's Empire Stadium tonight as the Edmonton Eskimos and the British Columbia Lions battle for the league lead in the Western Interprovincial Football League.

Former Lion coach Annis Stukus will be honored at the game.

The Grey Cup champion Eskimos drew abreast of the Lions Saturday night by eking out a 23-22 win over Calgary Stampeders. Each club has two wins in two games.

In Saturday's other WIFU game, halfback Bobby Marlow scored two touchdowns as Saskatchewan Roughriders spoiled the league debut of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers by defeating them 28-16.

The Roughriders showed a strong second-half ground offense, long a trademark of the Eskimos, as they piled up the points.

In the Big Four football league, champion Montreal Alouettes made a winning debut with a 24-20 win over Toronto Argonauts in a game that had home-town fans apprehensive at times.

ESKS NOT AS STRONG?

The Eskimos needed a last-quarter game-winning kick by star quarterback Jackie Parker for their one-point margin.

The Mississippi great was the game's high scorer, getting two touchdowns as well as the single.

Tonight's game may well see an unusual quarterback duel — not just in passing but in running.

Both Parker and Lions' Tony Teresa from San Jose are expert broken-field runners.

Teresa, more versatile than last year's quarter Arnie Galiffa, won the spot from Galiffa this year.

EDMONTON 'BOGS DOWN'

Halfback Earl Lindley scored Edmonton's third touchdown Saturday night on an interception while Bob Dean kicked a field goal and converted one of the touchdowns.

Calgary touchdowns were by native Calgarian Baz Nagle, Joe Pagliel, also a half, and fullback Earl Lumsford, a product of Oklahoma A & M.

Edmonton coach Frank (Pop) Ivy said after the game he was disappointed with his team's showing and said the team seemed often "to just bog down."

In Regina Ken Carpenter accounted for Riders' other touchdown while Reg Whitehouse converted all three and booted a field goal. Larry Isbell kicked four singles.

Quarterback Eagle Day and halfback McNamara scored Bombers' touchdowns while halfback Buddy Leake converted both and added a single.

Winnipeg's other point came when Davenport fumbled into the Rider end zone and Harry Lunn was roused.

In the Big Four duel, Toronto Argos came up with an impressive display and the Alouettes had to count on reliable Sam Etcheverry's passing and Hal Patterson's all-around play.

It was the only game of Saturday's Big Four schedule. Alouettes now share first place with Ottawa Rough Riders, who won their opener Wednesday against Hamilton Tiger-Cats in Hamilton.

The Alouettes meet in Ottawa next Friday night.

Pat Abbruzzi was the power man in the Montreal backfield, scoring two of Montreal's touchdowns while newcomer George Pascal chalked up one. Dick Shatto, Bucky Curtis and O. K. Ferguson were the touchdown men for Argos.

THE OPTIMO RUGBY FOOTBALL UNION

put the show on the road with the Rochester Pros, the first American team to play a league game in Canada, defeating Kitchener Dutchmen 30-14. At Sarnia the newly-named Golden Bears lost 22-21 to Toronto Beavers.

BUTTON SALMON WINS FOR JOAN

Joan Midlane topped more than 500 excited youngsters in the VSIAA Junior Derby on Sunday as she brought in a 24-pound, two-ounce spring salmon that would do any senior member proud.

Bow Down Seniors, Kids Can Fish Too

Caught on Strip Tease in McKenzie Bay with 200 feet of line and a planer, the monster won first prize of a bicycle and the Ronnie Sadler Memorial Trophy, emblematic of the largest fish caught by a VSIAA member in the derby.

Old, New Win Net Tournay

The old and the new came through in separate divisions Sunday in the finals of the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club's annual handicap tennis tournament.

Victor Sherman, a surprising 74, won the men's singles with a 6-4, 6-3 victory over Tom Hunt. It was his third handicap title in 20 years of playing at the club.

In the women's singles, 15-year-old Diana Lawrence showed a world of promise by defeating Joan Woolison, 6-1, 6-4, in the final.

Miss Lawrence and Marlene Hunt downed Miss Woolison and Ruth Ann Gordon, 6-1, 6-4, to win the women's doubles, while Frank Barry and Gerry Ford eliminated Harold Matthews and 13-year-old John Fraser, 6-3, 6-2, in the men's doubles final.

Miss Hunt and Frank Milroy won the mixed doubles title by defeating Wendy Cox and Bill Dunbar.

Varley Captures Main Event

Dick Varley, driving skillfully through a maze of accidents, won the abbreviated main event Saturday at Western Speedway's regular stock car races.

The race was shortened to 20 laps from the usual 30 because of the high number of cars knocked out. Eight cars were forced to leave the race.

A spectacular accident in the third lap saw Oiler Newton's car, stranded in mid-track, hit by five other cars, necessitating a restart.

Another three-car collision occurred in the third lap, when Dick Willoughby, top driver at the track, was leading the race up to the 17th lap, when his steering broke down and he was forced to leave the race.

Shamrock Appeal Goes Before CLA

Intercity President Says Irish Stay Out

By BILL RAYNER

Victoria Shamrocks have gone right to the top in their fight to stay alive in the Intercity Lacrosse League semifinals.

Shamrocks today are awaiting a decision on an appeal made to the Canadian Lacrosse Association about their suspension by the I.L.L. Saturday following the team's walkout Friday in the third game of the semi-final series with Vancouver Pileaters.

Rocks walked off the floor at 7:47 of the third period of the third game of the best-of-five series in protest over the refereeing at Vancouver's Kerrisdale Arena.

The I.L.L. besides automatically awarding the game to Vancouver Pileaters and forfeiture of Rocks' $100 league bond, declared Saturday that Victoria had forfeited the remainder of the semi-final series and was suspended from the league for the remainder of the year.

Shamrocks immediately appealed the decision to the CLA through the B.C.L.A. and are awaiting a decision today.

Ed Popham, Jr., president of the Shamrocks, told the Times today that the Rocks were appealing to the CLA on the basis of the I.L.L. made an illegal ruling by suspending the team for the series.

PLAYOFFS UNDER CLA

"The playoffs are played under CLA rules," he said, "and we are appealing on a CLA rule that says a league commission cannot change a CLA ruling."

The rule which the Shamrocks are basing their appeal is rule nine, section four, which states:

"Any team or teams refusing to take part in, or continue the playing of a scheduled game, or, overtime, after being ordered to do so by the referee, shall be deemed to have forfeited the match and neither the referee nor the executive of the association or any member association, shall have the power to depart from this rule."

The Rocks say that the I.L.L. departed from the rule when they arbitrarily announced that the Shamrocks had also forfeited the series.

I.L.L. president Carl Grauer told the Times today that the ruling was based on an ultimatum made by league secretary-manager Tommy Gordon following the walkout of the Rocks, to the effect that they had five minutes to return to the floor or forfeit the series.

The ultimatum was first made to this reporter by Gordon in a crowded, riotous corridor outside the Victoria dress room.

Boys' first prize of a bicycle was won by 10-year-old Ken Dwernychuk, who hooked a 20-pound two-ounce specimen at Christmas Point at the Goldstream end, Dwernychuk caught his fish on a Mac Squid fished with 175 feet of line and one pound of weight.

Third prize of a complete fishing outfit was won by Sharon Bosin, who caught a 17½-pounder at the Goldstream end.

All other prizes were hidden weights, with a total of 60 being given out. Unclaimed prizes may be picked up at Wilson & Lenfestey.

Hidden weight prize winners follow:

Rizzuto Released

NEW YORK (AP)—Phil Rizzuto, last of the prewar New York Yankees, was released Saturday to make room on the roster for Enos Country Slaughter, veteran outfielder, obtained from Kansas City Athletics via waivers.

Slaughter, now hitting .279, was sent to Kansas City last year but was brought back to help the Yankees, league leaders despite an outfield hampered by injuries.

Although Slaughter was acquired via waivers, owner Arnold Johnson of the Athletics said that Kansas City would receive in exchange a player who now is a regular on the Yankee team and who would be a regular with the Athletics next year.

Scots Down North Shore

VANCOUVER (CP)—St. Andrews led all the way Saturday as they downed North Shore Airos 5-1 in a Pacific Coast Summer Soccer League game.

George Mainwaring scored two goals to lead St. Andrews to victory. They were ahead 2-0 at halftime on goals by Finlay Boag and John Swan.

'Dusting' Duel Marks Sunday Ball Debut

The Associated Press

A dusting-off duel in which Portland Bill Werle bounced a ball off pitcher Charlie Beamon's head enlivened the first Sunday baseball game in Vancouver history with a near gang fight.

The 7,562 fans who turned out for the Pacific Coast League action saw Beamon retaliate by brushing back Werle when Bill came to bat, then bouncing a ball off his thigh Werle rushed Beamon with raised bat, but was restrained as players from both teams rushed onto the field.

Beamon not only stuck out the game, but drove in the winning run in the 10th for his 12th victory, by a 3-2 score. Portland bounced back to take the nightcap, 9-0.

Every other team in the PCL also split.

The day turned out to be muggy and cool, after weeks of almost continuous sunshine and the crowd was about 500 persons short of the record set for professional baseball here, set when the Mounties played their first Coast League game earlier this year.

Two other Sunday PCL games are scheduled for Sept. 9 and Sept. 16 — against San Francisco and Sacramento respectively — and by that time there may be a decision on whether the whole thing is legal.

The British Columbia Supreme Court will start consideration Sept. 5 of a by-law passed by city council two weeks ago that supposedly made Sunday sport legal.

Gorge Drops Playoff Opener

Calgary 3, Gorge 2

CALGARY — Victoria's Gorge Hotel came close here Sunday — but close wasn't good enough.

Held to one hit by Len Haley of Calgary Detroit Beavers, the hotelmen dropped the opening game of the western Canada senior A men's softball playdowns, 3-2.

Second game is scheduled here today and the third, Tuesday, if necessary.

Ab Wiebe hit a two-run homer for Gorge Hotel in the eighth inning after Flori Goegan had walked.

That was the only hit given up by Calgary pitcher, Haley.

Ed Foychuk of Gorge almost matched Haley, giving up three hits, but an illegal pitch contributed to his downfall.

After Calgary had taken a one-run lead in the first inning, hockey star Dave Duke singled home Burrows. Foychuk ran in to trouble in the fourth inning.

Burrows walked, Sid Finney was safe on an error; Alexander singled to score Burrows and Finney advanced to third on the play.

On the next pitch Foychuk was called for an illegal delivery and

By The Associated Press
Sometime last winter or last spring, Bob Buhl added something to his pitching habits. Maybe it was better control. Or a luck charm. Whatever it was, it may mean a long-sought pennant for Milwaukee Braves.

The 28-year-old righthander never had won more than 14 games in any of his three seasons in the majors, and in eight decisions against Brooklyn he won only three in the three years. Now he has 15 successes packed away this season—and seven of them have been over the world champion Dodgers.

Buhl nailed the Brooks for the seventh time without defeat 6-2 Sunday, holding the Braves into a three-game National League lead over the Dodgers. It also gave Milwaukee a four and one-half game spread over third-place Cincinnati, which defeated Philadelphia 10-5, then lost 11-4 for a doubleheader split.

Wife's Life? Or Baby's? Man May Have to Decide

NEWCASTLE, Eng. (AP)—A woman who has lain in a coma for 100 days with a brain injury is expecting a baby.

If 22-year-old Ellen Moore does not recover consciousness soon, doctors say her young salesman husband could be faced with a terrible choice—whether the life of the mother or of her unborn baby should be saved.

The baby is due in three months.

Mrs. Moore has been in the general hospital here since a heavy log, falling from a passing truck, hit her as she was wheeling her 18-month-old son Paul in a baby buggy.

Since her deep sleep began, she has uttered only three words: "Paul... mother... baby..."

Each night her husband, Kenneth, has watched by her bedside for four hours.

"I just sit there, hoping she will show some little signs of coming around," he said. "But day after day, week after week, and now month after month, it has been the same report: 'No change in her condition.' It is terrible."

Recently he put pictures of their son Paul before her expressionless eyes in hopes of reviving her memory. There was no recognition.

In America, the quality of writing ink is protected by federal law. If you wish to make and sell ink, your recipe must be government approved. Standard blue-black ink may be made from the following ingredients. The fluid base is a litre of distilled water. Dissolved in it are 5 grams of gallic acid crystals, 7.5 grams of ferrous sulphate crystals, 1 gram of tartaric acid and 3.5 grams of soluble blue dye.

The dyes and metallic salts work together to form an ink that will endure. As the air fades the dye it darkens the salts. It writes with a clean, neat line and does not penetrate through the paper. A good writing ink does not cake in the bottle, it does not separate so that you have to shake before using. It will not injure the rubber or plastic parts of a fountain pen. Most ink manufacturers improve on the standard recipe with trade secrets of their own.

There are many inks besides writing ink. Each calls for a special recipe. Laundry ink is made to withstand the water and chemicals in the washing machine. It is often made of silver nitrate and ammonia in water. India ink is made from carbon dust, glue, soap and water. This black, shiny drawing ink is waterproof though it often tends to cake in the bottle and eat into metal pens. There are printing inks and colored inks of all kinds. New recipes are invented as different needs arise.

A new ink was invented when the ball point pen was invented. The dyes and metallic salts of fluid ink were molded into solid sticks. Ink was invented by both the Chinese and the Egyptians. They molded their ingredients into solid sticks and dissolved them as needed. So maybe our new idea is not so new.

The oldest recipes used carbon dust and powdered gum. The gum formed a glue to stick the black carbon onto the paper or papyrus. Our modern inks are even more durable. So read all the words and the fine print before you take pen in hand to sign that important document.

No sensible person will use trick sticks to cheat. But here are two recipes to amuse the members of secret societies. Starch and water makes an invisible ink. So does lemon juice and water. The invisible lemon ink will turn brown over a low flame. Invisible starch ink turns blue in a solution of iodine.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

What Exactly Is Ink?

Even the government is interested in this fluid which we use for writing. A scrap of paper is stolen or lost. This may lead to a tale of trouble and adventure. For the bit of paper is a signed document. A signature makes it important. A signature is a person's name written by himself. The law accepts that document as proof that he read the paper and agreed to it. Produce the signed document and he can be held to his promise. There are tales of signatures written in ink which fades and becomes invisible. The law is also interested in this and all matters concerning tricky signatures. But some signatures have faded through no trickery. The ink was unable to stand the test of time, light or moisture. The law is also interested in this.

In America, the quality of writing ink is protected by federal law. If you wish to make and sell ink, your recipe must be government approved. Standard blue-black ink may be made from the following ingredients. The fluid base is a litre of distilled water. How Much Does a Baby Elephant Weigh?

A baby elephant takes his time growing up. After all, he has a long way to go. At birth, the young fellow stands only three feet high at shoulder level. However, he is no lightweight. He may weigh around 200 pounds. Full grown, he may stand 13 feet high at shoulder level and weigh over six tons.

The new baby is covered with coarse black hair. He loses it before he loses his baby teeth. The baby tusks drop out when he is six months old. Junior feeds on mother's milk for about two years. He stays close to mom for another two years. He considers himself an adult at 14 years of age though he may grow for a few more years.

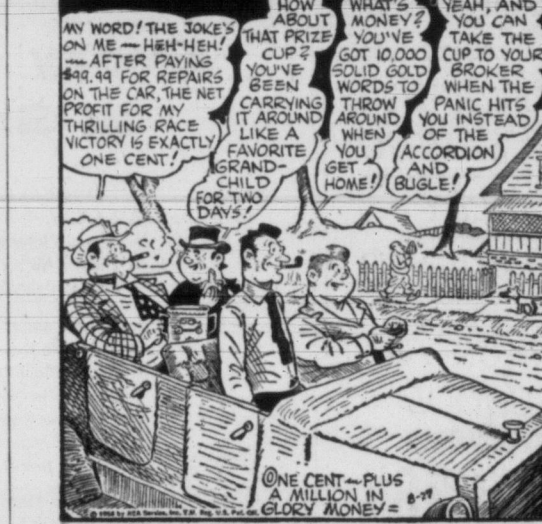

At forty, Mr. Elephant grows his last wisdom tooth. He can still expect to enjoy life for another 30 to 35 years.

EZIO PINZA IMPROVING AFTER SLIGHT STROKE

CERVIA, Italy (AP)—Singer Ezio Pinza is improving nicely, his physicians said after examining the ailing stage and screen star today.

Dr. Celestino Scaravelli, director of the Cervia Hospital, said an electro-cardiogram was satisfactory and he has ordered little medication since everything was going well.

"The best treatment is rest," the physician said. Pinza, 64, suffered a slight paralytic stroke Friday and cancelled his contract to appear in a new Broadway play. But his wife indicated he hopes to be able to return to the stage.

Canadian Actors Rehearsed Sunday for Edinburgh Show

EDINBURGH (CP)—Canadian actors rehearsed on the Stratford stage—now we are on the real thing.

The Canadian company, featuring Montreal actor Christopher Plummer in the title role of Shakespeare's Henry V, has its work cut out to trim the production to the requirements of the Edinburgh stage in time for Tuesday's first night, already a sellout.

"We will still be going at 3 a.m.," said Langham as the cast broke off for tea and sausage rolls in a gloomy side room of the great stone church headquarters.

SIX-DAY ORDEAL

'Dried Out' Boy Scout Wanted Pants, $3

SEATTLE (AP) — Richard Mizuhata, 13-year-old Seattle Boy Scout who survived six days on the treacherous slopes of Mount Rainier with virtually no food or water, ate three big meals in a Seattle hospital Sunday.

The small, shy Japanese-American boy was snatched from the woody prison of the Carbon River section of the Mount Rainier National Park Saturday, nearly a week after he had become separated from 13 other Scouts on a hiking trip.

During that time all he had to eat was a few candy bars and water from the mountain streams. Richard had no food or water with him. Physicians who examined the boy said he was "all dried out," that he apparently had drunk only a few drops of water during his ordeal.

LITTLE INJURY

The boy miraculously escaped pneumonia through his six-day exposure to cold winds and rain. His only injuries were a sprained ankle and a small cut on the forehead. When found he was still wearing his thick-lensed glasses, without which he virtually can not see.

Richard said he had been in the little ravine "since yesterday." He was soaking wet from the rain and when rescuers stripped off his wet clothing they got an immediate argument out the plucky Boy Scout.

"I want my three dollars, give me my pants," Richard hollered.

The rescuers looked in the trousers which they had torn off the boy and found his wallet. It contained three $1 bills.

Doctors Sunday described his condition as "extremely good" considering the ordeal the boy had been through.

Return to Faith Based On Bible 'Greatest Need'

By TONY DICKSON

A charming personality with an engaging smile, large laughing eyes and a resonant and sympathetic voice.

This is Rev. J. Sidlow Baxter, preaching here nightly at Central Baptist.

He is a Bible specialist, and says "we are living at the end of a period at which the Bible has been attacked and repudiated in the name of what we now are beginning to see has been a pseudo-scholarship."

The science of archeology with its uncovering of long buried data in the Orient is bringing more and more confirmation of the Bible to light. Mr. Baxter said one of the greatest needs of the British Commonwealth and the United States was a return to national and individual faith based on the Bible—especially as it provided a bulwark against Communism.

All outstanding epochs in national Commonwealth history have been products of Christian revivals, he said.

TRAVELLED

Australian-born, Mr. Baxter is well-known for his international ministries and has visited many mission fields, including Nigeria, Belgian Congo, Egypt, Syria, India, Pakistan, Palestine, Rome and the United States.

Testimony to his popularity is the fact 12,000 persons heard him speak in London's Crystal Palace. He has also spoken in Royal Albert Hall.

He will be in Victoria until Thursday, then leaves for Calgary, Edmonton and then down to the United States.

To Be Tory Candidate In Esquimalt Riding

SEMI-RETIRE
Dr. Chisholm, 60, has been in semi-retirement the last three years, although maintaining a busy schedule of university and conference lectures which have taken him throughout the continent and other parts of the world.

Among important posts held by the new candidate have been those of director general of medical services for the Canadian army and deputy health minister in Ottawa.

He will be nominated in Colwood Hall Friday at 8 p.m.

It was announced today also, city insurance man Justin Harbord, is standing for nomination as Tory candidate in Oak Bay.

She screamed, the man struck her, and she struggled free. Police acted on her description of the attacker.

Conditions for tuna in B.C. waters are the best they have been in three years. Capt. W. Earnshaw of the fisheries patrol craft Kitimat reported here today.

"The Kitimat returned from a tuna hunt off the west coast of Vancouver Island Sunday. She was en route to the RCMV Cape Heatherton following an engine breakdown off Cape Flattery which cut short her patrol.

"I wish we could have had another day out there," the captain said. "I am convinced we should not give up the search yet.

"The weather drawback is feed could be a bit more plentiful, but all other conditions point to tuna."

The patrol craft landed one 17-pounder 140 miles off the mouth of the Columbia before the engine breakdown called a halt to her patrol.

Major damage, including chewed gears, was incurred. A call for aid to the Air Sea Rescue centre at Vancouver was quickly relayed to the U.S. Coast Guard, and cutter 4422 took Kitimat in tow to the shores of Seal Bay.

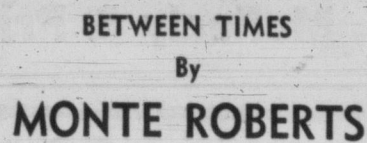

There, the oil-malt-based tug Heatherton took over and brought Kitimat to its inner harbor berth. She will be laid up for a lengthy period.

Capt. Earnshaw said the operation pointed up the speed and efficiency of B.C. air-sea rescue plan.

NO EVIDENCE

He found plenty of excitement among west coast fishermen over tuna prospects but vessels, ranging from punts to the navigating tug, Island Champion, jockeyed for position. The swim was hailed as a marked success and plans are being made to make it bigger next year. (Times Photos by Bill Halkett.)

Thousands Cheer Marilyn

By AB KENT

Nearly a half century of Greater Victoria's claimed "silver" status Saturday to pay tribute to Marilyn Bell before she went home a champion of Juan de Fuca Strait.

Victoria's sweetheart, her coach Gus Ryder and members of her swimming team paraded across half the city, cheered by 25,000 citizens, arrived at Beacon Hill Park for a civic reception attended by another 4,500, then returned to Oak Bay through still-thronged thoroughfares.

Marilyn and Gus, in a convertible, led the procession of more than a dozen cars.

I wouldn't have got here if you didn't know where you were going."

H. B. Elworthy, Island Tug & Barge, was thanked for his co-operation and generosity; The Times and Toronto Telegram, co-sponsors.

"I wouldn't have got here without them—I felt everyone was with me; her mother and father and sister," they gave me all the encouragement possible. Thank you, everyone."

Gus was given a silver medalion bearing the city's coat of arms and an inscription marking his dual coaching victory of the past two weeks.

He praised Canada's teenagers, "regardless of what anyone says, I believe in them implicitly."

Of Capt. Cavin he said: "There a home-town idol. I go back with the greatest love for Victoria and her wonderful people."

Marilyn and Gus were given paintings by Victoria artists Owen Goward, depicting Strait scenes.

"We hope 20 years from now when Marilyn is settled down and raising her own children, she will look at these and say, 'that's what mommy did,' said Stuart Keate, Times publisher.

The crowd sang "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows," gave three cheers and a tiger.

The crowd, milling in the southwest playing field, broke out from time to time with cheers for Marilyn.

Acting mayor Ald. W. F. Pinfold gave the city's congratulations.

Ald. Pinfold said the city would take immediate steps to have the bay—sometimes called Stoney Beach—where Marilyn landed after her record-making swim Thursday, called Marilyn Bell Bay.

"I don't know where to begin," the Toronto school girl said. "I'm so happy. I've got so many people to thank. "It was really wonderful to see all those happy faces on shore Thursday night."

There were so many, so closely packed along the cliffs and standing in the surf, she thought at first they were a huge flower garden.

Her thanks went to Gus: "It's the fourth time he's brought me through."

She thanked her navigator, Capt. Ellice Cavin: "I'm sure

Q.—I have a Queen Victoria two-cent Canadian postage stamp. It is approximately the same size as some of ours today, but it has the Queen Victoria head. Will you tell me its approximate value? W.F.

A.—The Times is informed by R. M. Angus who has had long experience in handling stamps which attract the attention of collectors that the value of yours is less than five cents. Vast numbers of Canadian postage stamps were issued during the long reign of Victoria. Commemorative issues were put out in 1897 and 1898, but specimens of either of those dates have little premium value because there are so many of them still in existence.

Five Ounces of Honey Fill Novel Pottery Bee

By PENNY SAVER

What could be sweeter than honey from the honey bee? A giant pottery honey bee that rests on wrought iron legs holds five ounces of fresh honey for your breakfast toast or for waffles. The wings form the lid that closes tightly with a rubber ring on the inside. This would make a very nice gift for someone. Once emptied, it can be refilled with more honey, or with jam or jellies. The bee and honey cost $2.65.

Birthday candles are items that will be in demand so long as we keep on having birthdays, but now you can buy ones that are a little different from the types you've been seeing year after year. The ones I found are about four times regular size, and are gracefully twisted in spirals. A box of 12, with six colors to a box, costs 27 cents.

For many who like to putter around the garden, here's a handy pocket knife that will have many uses. From one end comes a sturdy blade, and from the other, a network of hinged pieces that form clippers for pruning small bushes. The shaft is a processed material that looks like polished wood. This knife is yours for $3.50.

While in a local store, I noticed a new brand of paint that has proved to be very popular since its first introduction a short while ago. It's really different, for it has a jelly-like consistency. It spreads smoothly, but will not drip or run down the brush. It's wonderful for us who like to paint up little things around the house, for after the paint tin has been opened and partly used, it can just be sealed again tightly, and the paint will neither separate or harden. In a wide range of colors, 1 1/2 gallon costs 95 cents; 1/2 gallon $3.15, and right up to a gallon tin, which is $11.45. It is generally believed that this type of paint will become more and more popular and that other manufacturers will put out similar products.

If there's a worn spot on the floor on the driver's side of your car, chances are it's from the heel of your shoe rubbing on the place beneath your accelerator pedal. You can buy a hard-rubber cover that fits on any accelerator, and a circular piece of acetate rubber protects the place where your heel rests. These covers are selling at $1.25 each.

Call me at 2-3131 and I'll give you the names of the stores where the items may be found.

Carol Anne Mallek Dainty Bride On Sunday Evening in Vancouver

(Special to the Times)

VANCOUVER—Delicate as the lovely color of a shell's lining was the tone chosen by Carol Anne Mallek for her bridal gown and those of her attendants when she became the bride of Max Fugman on Sunday evening.

Palest shell pink was her robe of silk delustrated taffeta. Its widely spreading skirt swept into a graceful train and the moulded bodice and skirt were further enriched with appliques of guipure lace encrusted with mother-of-pearl sequins. The triple-tiered illusion veil, fingertip-length, was of the same shell pink and was held in place by a crown of velvet embroidered with pink seed pearls.

The ceremony took place in Beth Israel Synagogue with Rabbi Bertram Woythaler officiating, assisted by Cantor Abraham Deutsch. Choirmaster was Mr. S. Pelman.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mallek, Vancouver, and formerly of Victoria, and her groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fugman.

Miss Lorilee Mallek was her sister's maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Shelley Sperling, Miss Vivienne Stusser, Miss Judy Maslan, Seattle, and Miss Harriet Belberg, Calgary. Taffeta fashioned the bridesmaids' waltz-length frocks with off-shoulder neckline marked with streamer bows. Long mittens of the same material matched their hats. Similar in tone and fabric was the maid of honor's dress with rounded neckline and sash ending in a bustle bow. Her hat matched her gown.

William Katz came from Calgary to be best man and ushers were Ted Harrison, Murton Davis, Ronald Katzin and Sidney Belberg, Lethbridge. The bride's toast was proposed by Albert Koch.

Original Composition Given At a Saturday Wedding

This afternoon in St. John's Anglican Church, marriage vows were exchanged between Olive Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garth James Cameron, 261 Michigan Street, and Alan Winston Beach, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Beach of Vancouver. Canon George Biddle officiated.

During signing of the register Mrs. Rodney Webster sang "Blessed Are the Pure in Heart," a selection composed for the occasion by her husband.

The church was decorated with autumn toned gladioli. White silk acetate created the bridal gown which was styled in ballerina length with a skirt featuring a straight front and full back and a lace bodice. A chapel length veil of silk illusion was held with silver coronet. The bouquet was of gardenias.

For "something old" the bride wore her father's gift to her mother on their wedding day—a 250-year-old silver filigree cross blessed by Pope Pius IX in 1850 which has now been used by five generations at weddings. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Miss Margaret Cameron wearing a green iridescent taffeta gown, was maid of honor, and Miss Ann Cameron in copper toned iridescent taffeta and Miss Ann Biddle in gold toned taffeta, were bridesmaids. They all wore matching hats and shoes and carried chrysanthemums in autumn colors with sheaves of wheat.

The groom's brother, Brian Beach, Vancouver, was best man and the ushers Graham Bradshaw, Kamloops, and James Leach, Victoria.

A reception was held in the Hampton Hall, where a three-tier wedding cake, topped with pink roses and a horseshoe, centred the bride's table, which was decorated in pink and white. Gladioli and ferns were used to decorate guest tables. Canon Biddle proposed the toast to the bride's happiness.

Mrs. James Beach, in a dusty rose lace and chiffon over taffeta ensemble with white accessories, and Mrs. Cameron, in a copper brocade iridescent taffeta sheath gown with matching hat and black and cream accessories, assisted in receiving the guests.

The honeymoon will be spent on Vancouver Island. For travelling, the bride chose a gold sheath dress with brown accessories. She wore a white orchid corsage and the groom's gift, rhinestone earrings and necklace.

The couple will live at 4163 W. 12th Avenue, Vancouver.

Bernadine Davis and Roy Lister Married in Cathedral Saturday

Autumn orange and white gladioli in tall standard baskets and vases were placed at the main altar in St. Andrew's Cathedral for the nuptial mass, Saturday morning, when Miss Lois Bernadine Davis became the bride of Roy Lloyd Lister. Father A. J. McDonald celebrated the mass. Organist, Miss M. McKay, accompanied the soloist, Don Mulcahy, who sang "Panis Angelicus" and "Ave Maria".

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Dalton Davis, 240 Cook Street, was given in marriage by her father.

The lovely bride entered the cathedral with three attendants gowning in shades of blue, a perfect complement to the white of the bride's gown of lace over satin. The fitted bodice was styled with long lily point sleeves, Peter Pan collar embroidered with mother of pearl sequins, and a net yoke bordered with matching sequins. The bouffant skirt of nylon net featured front panels of lace. Her elbow length veil of illusion net was held to a bonnet headpiece covered with sequins. A bouquet of white gladioli blooms centred with white rosebuds, stephanotis and fern, and a white prayer book completed her ensemble.

Maid of honor, Miss Patricia Sullivan, and bridesmaids, Mrs. W. McGovern and Mrs. John Jones, were gowning in net and lace. Miss Sullivan's gown featured a boat neckline, fitted bodice and accordion pleated skirt. Mrs. McGovern and Mrs. Jones wore strapless gowns with matching net jackets. All carried baskets of yellow marguerites, white Esther Reed daisies and blue delphiniums. Their bandeaus were of yellow marguerites and Esther Reed daisies.

The groom had Walter McGovern as best man, and Duff Roberge and Rod Pearce ushered guests to pews marked with autumn orange ribbons and white bells.

Tall candelabra and a cascading arrangement of pink and white sweetpeas and maidenhair fern decorated the bride's table at a reception held in the Chez Marcel. A three-tier wedding cake decorated in pink and white and topped with pink rosebuds centred the table. Bob Martin proposed the toast to the bride.

The newlyweds left for a honeymoon trip through Washington and Oregon. For traveling, the new Mrs. Lister wore a sheath and matching short-sleeved duster coat in caramel brown, with dark brown shoes and bag, and honey beige hat and gloves. Her corsage was of white gladioli centred with white rosebuds.

Mr. and Mrs. Lister will make their home at Suite 10, 240 Cook street, when they return.

Late Summer Wedding Vows

Baskets of gladioli, Michaelmas daisies and greenery formed the floral setting for the wedding last Friday evening of Miss Verna Jean Saunders and Ronald Blair Smith in Esquimalt United Church. Rev. Douglas R. Pilkey officiated at the ceremony which united the daughter of Maj. and Mrs. Roy W. Saunders, 496 Lampson Street, and the son of Dr. and Mrs. J. Willard Smith, 401 Lampson Street. Mrs. T. Dixon was organist, playing traditional wedding music and accompanying soloist, Miss Gladwyn Hodge.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. For the ceremony she wore a bridal gown of white brocade satin styled with a bouffant ballerina-length skirt, fitted bodice and mandarin collar. Her chapel length veil of illusion net was held to a circlet of tiny blossoms. Completing her ensemble, she carried an arm bouquet of briarcliff roses and white sweet peas.

TRIO OF ATTENDANTS

She was attended by two bridesmaids and a junior bridesmaid gowning alike in light blue brocade taffeta in princess style with three-quarter length sleeves. Their hats were of matching taffeta and net, and their bouquets, of yellow marguerites. Attendants were Miss Gloria Molofy, Miss Laurel Pugh and Miss Linda Smith, sister of the groom. Flower girl, Miss Angela Park, wore a yellow nylon frock and carried a colonial bouquet of matching flowers.

Best man was Verne Smith, brother of the groom, and ushers were Donald Marshall and Ted Saunders, brother of the bride.

Maj. Seymour Park proposed the toast to the bride at the reception party which followed in the Golden Slipper Banquet Hall. Briarcliff roses and white candlesticks decorated the bride's table where the cake was centred.

For travelling, the bride wore a light blue box style suit with matching white and blue hat, beige shoes and purse, and a corsage of Pincocchio roses.

Following a honeymoon trip in the interior of B.C., the newlyweds will make their home at 3267 W. 10th Street in Vancouver.

Party Marks Wedding Day of 31 Years Ago

Among the more than 300 friends who attended the garden party given by Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes and Mrs. Pearkes at their Tattersal drive home last Saturday afternoon were a few who knew that the gathering marked a special occasion in the lives of the host and hostess.

It was their 31st wedding anniversary.

On Aug. 26, 1925, in St. Paul's Naval and Garrison Church, Esquimalt, Miss Blytha Copeman and George R. Pearkes were married. Rev. (now Canon) T. M. Hughes officiated and the bridesmaids were Miss Betty Copeman and Miss Hilda Pearkes, sister of the groom.

"It was a very windy day," Mrs. Pearkes smilingly reminisced on Saturday. "We had a garden reception and the refreshment marquee blew down. However, the wedding cake was safe and we cut it in the traditional manner."

Canon Hughes was among the guests at last Saturday afternoon's anniversary garden party, also Mrs. Pearkes' father, Mr. W. F. U. Copeman. A bridesmaid of 31 years ago was there—now Mrs. H. G. Bishop (Betty Copeman). Gen. Pearkes' mother, Mrs. L. Pearkes and his sister, Miss Hilda Pearkes were unable to attend the party.

Among other guests who remembered the wedding were Mrs. Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Bullen, Major G. Sisman, Miss Frances Price, Mr. G. U. Copeman, Mrs. Rex Gibson, Col. R. L. Mitchell (it was Col. Mitchell who tied tins on

Callettes' Party

Alderman Lily Wilson will officially open the garden party arranged by St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society Callettes, at the home of Mrs. David Cooper, "Glencraig," 1988 Fernside Road, Gordon Head, on Wednesday at 2.30 p.m. The affair will continue open until 5 p.m. Entertainment will be provided by the Greater Victoria Pipe Band and by the Adeline Duncan dancers. There will be home cooking and candy stalls. Proceeds will be used for the building fund. A special bus will leave the depot at 2.15 p.m. for the garden party. Regular buses leave the city at the quarter after the hour.

Wedding Guests

Among guests who attended the Saturday morning wedding of Miss Bernadine Davis and Mr. Roy Lister in St. Andrew's Cathedral were many from out-of-town. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kirk, Regina; Miss Stella Kirk and Mrs. Cecilia Mitchell, Saskatoon; Mr. and Mrs. James Lister, Mr. R. M. Kyle and Mrs. Mary Voischos, Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. Dave Lister, Seattle, and Mr. John Lister, Campbell River.

False Teeth Often Have a Certain Odor!

Soak your plates in Polident daily to avoid "Denture Breath". Polident is the specially designed cleanser that keeps false teeth and breath—clean and fresh always. Follow these simple rules:

1. Never use a brush on them! Your denture plates are much softer than natural teeth. Brushing wears down fitting ridges so they get loose.
2. Never use soap or toothpaste! They can leave film which collects bacteria and food particles, a major cause of offensive "Denture Breath".
3. Use a soaking-type cleanser made for false teeth only. Polident! Polident is the denture cleanser recommended by more dentists than any other. No brushing, no handling of soapy plates that can slip and break. Polident gets where a brush can't reach. Best of all, Polident always leaves false teeth odor-free and the world's largest selling denture cleanser. Polident, at your drug counter.

my side of the story

A Continuing Series
By THE DUCHESS OF WINDSOR

In due course Mr. Chamberlain arrived in Paris and came to see David at the Meurice. I was not present at the interview.

Afterwards David told me that Mr. Chamberlain had been cordial, interested, but non-committal. At the conclusion of their talk the prime minister had said: "As His Majesty's servant I shall be very glad to discuss the matter with my colleagues, and, if desirable, with His Majesty. As soon as we have examined the matter I shall advise you."

David waited hopefully. Weeks passed. No word came from 10 Downing Street or from the palace.

David finally made inquiries. All that he could ever find out was that the government considered that the question of David's returning to Britain was a private matter between him and the King, and the palace considered it a matter in which the government should tender advice, and there things lay.

In one of his rare resorts to cynicism David remarked one day: "I'm afraid we'll be too old to cross the channel before my brother and the PM stop bating the ball back and forth."

NOT MEAN OR SNIDE

Aside from his blithe assumption that the logistics of life would take care of themselves, I discovered that David had endearing qualities that were rare in my experience. There was not a mean bone in his body or a snide thought in his brain. Gossip rolled off him like rain off a slate roof.

He had an extraordinary resiliency of the spirit, and I came to realize that this was an expression of his sunny disposition, his refusal to believe ill of anyone.

Perhaps at a critical time for him this quality was his salvation; believing as he does that all human experience should be a challenge, it was impossible for him ever to think that any change in circumstances could be a defeat.

The one fundamental lack in his new life was the absence of the ordered round of duties, the calendar blocked out as much as a year ahead, and the daily inflow of red boxes from Whitehall bringing to him the never-ending business of Empire. It now fell to me to attempt to ment of the Russo-German non-aggression pact, to be followed in a matter of days by the German invasion of Poland.

WAR DECLARED

As David listened to the radio bulletins telling of the German smash across the Polish frontier, he suddenly said, "This is beginning to smell like 1914 all over again."

September 3, 1939, was a hot and humid day, even for the Cote d'Azur at that season. The morning news broadcasts over the French radio left no doubt of the imminent disintegration of the Polish forces.

Convinced that Britain and France would be at war with Germany in a matter of hours, David tried to reach his friends in London, but the French telephone circuits were hopelessly clogged.

Giving up the struggle, he shrugged, saying: "There's nothing we can do from here right now. I'm sure I shall hear from my brother the moment any decision is taken. Let's go for a swim."

"Fruity" Metcalfe was staying with us. Just before noon, as we all started for our swim, a servant hurried after David to tell him that the British ambassador was calling from Paris. "Fruity" and I went on.

About 10 minutes later, David joined us. Walking straight to the edge of the pool, he said in a quiet voice, "Great Britain has just declared war on Germany." And he dived into the pool.

CHEMAINUS OLD-TIMER

Dress Shop Owner Dies in England

CHEMAINUS — Mrs. Teresa Clarke, who operated a ladies' dress shop here, until last May, died recently in Manchester, England, according to word received by a brother, Joseph Burns.

Mrs. Clarke came to Chemainus in 1919. She operated the business known as "The Sample Shop". Mrs. Clarke left for England by air last May, after being ill in health for several months.

She is survived by one brother, Joseph, in Chemainus; four sisters, Mrs. Gertrude Clarke, Miss Philomena Burns, Mrs. Francis Webb and Miss Elizabeth Webb, all of Manchester; also a nephew, Robert Burns, of Lake Cowichan, and two nieces, Mrs. Phyllis Palmer, of Portland, and Miss Dorothy Burns, of Manchester.

She was predeceased by her husband, who in 1930 founded Clarke & Sons Building Supplies, with stores in Chemainus and Ladysmith. This business, later purchased by the late A. E. Beasley, is still known under the name of Clarke & Son, Ltd.

Following a family service, at the home of her sister, Mrs. Webb, the remains were cremated.

Noise of clanging bunkers and planermill of MacMillan Bloedel Co., Ltd., Chemainus, will soon be eliminated.

This has been a source of annoyance to residents in the vicinity for many years.

Installation of small metal bins will be completed by the end of September, together with a new conveyor at a lower level.

Guest speaker at the Chemainus Rotary meeting last week was Dick Coppage, superintendent of the Murphy Excavating Company, for work at Chemainus and Ladysmith.

Mr. Coppage conducted a round-table conference on government policies, their effect on business and commercial progress, and other items of government procedure.

Members were reminded of the Rotary auction, September 8, and a town canvass for second-hand items in good condition is planned for September 3 and 4.

Construction Men End 'Hunger' Strike

CAMPBELL RIVER (CP) — Promise of Dawson, Wade & Co. to improve food has ended what some 300 members of five unions called a "hunger strike" at the B.C. Power Commission's Upper Campbell Lake hydro development project.

After the firm announced that catering facilities would be improved, the men said they would return to work Monday morning. They had left their jobs in protest after lunch Thursday.

COURTENAY — Some 50 RCMP officers, airmen from Comox and civilians expect to continue their hunt Sunday for Mrs. Emma Hadley, 80-year-old Denman Island resident, missing since she left the home of relatives at nearby Union Bay Friday afternoon to go for a walk.

NANAIMO — Gabriela Island residents will be hosts at a monster barbecue at Withey's orchard on the island from 3 to 7 p.m. Saturday.

It has been announced that 600 pounds of salmon and one and one-half tons of clams will be cooked. Motorists can use the regular ferry, but transportation will be provided for visiting yachtsmen.

A dance will be held at the community hall in the evening.

NANAIMO — Bowen Park Development Association has invested $30,000 in labor, material, and cash donations at the park beside Millstone River, Ken Alexander told the Rotary Club here.

33 years of misery... ASTHMA and Chronic Bronchitis

If bronchial asthma sometimes makes you feel like a human wreck, see what happened to Mr. H. J. Reeder, Box 321, Armstrong, B.C. He tells us: "When I was 45 years of age, I began to suffer from asthma and chronic bronchitis. At 78 years of age, I had not found the medicine I needed to get relief from attacks of coughing, wheezing and gasping for breath. Then I was introduced to Templeton's RAZ-MAH by a neighbour, and am thankful indeed to have learned about this comforting relief. Since using RAZ-MAH I breathe far more easily... sleep comfortably and am able to take pleasure in life again... get about without difficulty." Enjoy quick relief from chronic bronchitis and asthma with Templeton's RAZ-MAH — only 79c and $1.50 at drug counters.

IN THE WINNERS' CIRCLE

Laughren Wins Mass Swim After Battle With Muir

By DENNY BOYD

Big Ben Laughren won $1,000 and further claim to his title of Endurance King of Juan de Fuca Strait Sunday in the first annual Junior Chamber of Commerce Mass Swim.

Laughren, 270 pounds and a 34-year-old father of three, stayed in the Strait waters for 10 hours, 15 minutes to outlast nine other starters and pick up first money by the margin of seven minutes over Saanich's popular swimming surveyor, Bill Muir, who lasted 10 hours, eight minutes and collected $750 for second prize.

Third money of $500 went to former Torontonian Janice White for a nine-hour, 56-minute swim while Billie Benedict made a strong showing and collected $250 for her six-hour, five-minute effort.

None of the other six starters was able to last more than 3½ hours, being forced to leave the water for a variety of reasons, running from the cold to nausea and cramps.

real was the only entrant who did not show up for the race.

Competitors and observers alike were unanimous in their praise of the organizational job done by the Jaycees and their co-sponsors, radio station CKDA.

The swim was well-run, went off without a hitch and officials already are making plans for a bigger and better swim next year.

As none of the swimmers succeeded in crossing the Strait, the entire purse of $6,000 was not awarded. There is a surplus of $3,500 which will be reserved for next year as the start of a pot that may be boosted to $15,000.

Next year's swim may be scheduled to fit in with the Atlantic City swim and the CNE swim in Lake Ontario. Such scheduling could make Victoria a worthwhile stop for competitors taking part in the other two big professional swims and create a swimming "gold trail" across the continent.

BANQUET TONIGHT

Jaycees will be the hosts to night for a banquet and prize-giving ceremony for the swimmers at McEwen's Restaurant.

Big Ben, who has tried 11 times to make a complete Strait crossing, won his $1,000 purse on his tremendous endurance rather than his swimming ability.

Ben was far back in the early hours of the swim as the speedier entrants piled up leads.

But, inexorably, the Strait began to assert itself and flares streaking into the sky marked the toll that the swim was taking.

Under the pre-arranged rules, the swim could not be counted as official until it had passed the six-hour mark.

When that deadline was reached, four swimmers were in the water. Muir, making good time with his steady breaststroke, was maintaining

$20 MILLION PULP MILL FOR PEACE RIVER AREA

VANCOUVER (CP)—Proposals for construction of a $20,000,000 pulp mill in the Peace River region of northeastern British Columbia were revealed by Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston today to guests travelling on the inaugural Pacific Great Eastern train from North Vancouver to Prince George. Mr. Williston declined to identify the interested parties except to say they were large B.C. firms already engaged in the forest industry.

Contempt Action Under Way Today

Sommers' Lawyer Denies He's Acting for Government

VANCOUVER (CP)—Application for a writ of attachment for contempt of court was started in the B.C. Supreme Court here today against Deane Finlayson, Progressive Conservative leader.

Applications have also been made against the Vancouver Sun, its publisher Donald Cromie and a reporter, Frank Walden; and the Vancouver Herald and its publisher and editor-in-chief, Gerald M. Brown. John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative member of parliament for Prince Albert, is appearing for Mr. Finlayson. The Sun is represented by Douglas McK. Brown and the Herald by Senator J. W. deB. and John Farris.

Alfred Bull, lawyer for R. E. Sommers, former minister of lands and forests in the Social Credit government, is applying for the writ and alleges that Mr. Finlayson was in contempt in reading to an election meeting the statement of defence in a slander suit brought by Mr. Sommers against David Sturdy, a Vancouver lawyer.

Mr. Bull outlined the legal history of the Sturdy-Sommers case to Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson today and said:

"In these cases I do not as a rule take any personal part in the matter.

"But in this case some of the politicians have accused me of being a government lawyer and, by inference, some of the newspapers have even accused me of delaying the proceedings of the law because of the elections.

"I am not a government solicitor. I am solely counsel for Sommers and my one desire is to obtain for Mr. Sommers a fair trial of this issue which involves a criminal offence.

"In trying to obtain that object, I have not been influenced in the slightest by anything related to the election.

"I have never denied the right of the parties any criticism of the government with regard to what is called the 'Sommers-Sturdy affair'. That I would say is perfectly legitimate.

Mr. Bull then read a letter dated Aug. 14 which was sent to Mr. Finlayson warning him of his position should he refer in his scheduled speech to the case.

The letter said that anything Finlayson might say with regard to the facts of the case would be in question of the rule of contempt. Any discussion of the fact whether set out in pleadings or not was bound to reach the jurors.

In the letter, Mr. Bull warned Finlayson that if he transgressed the rules in the slightest he had instructions from his client to take steps immediately to have him cited for contempt of court.

Lake Ontario Solo Ends After 28 Miles

NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE, Ont. (CP)—Marathon swimmer Jim Woods of Candier N.C., attempting to swim Lake Ontario, was pulled from the water after covering 28 of the 32 miles to Toronto's waterfront.

He jumped in the water here at 12:05 a.m. today (9:05 p.m. PDT). Sunday and was pulled out at 2:52 p.m. (11:52 PDT) about four miles from his goal. It was his fourth unsuccessful attempt in two years.

He had decided to make the attempt alone when the Lake Ontario marathon swim committee did not select him to take part in its race across the lake, scheduled to begin today. Several other swimmers also

Canadian Newsman Expelled

(CP and BUP Dispatches)

TORONTO—William Stevenson, Toronto Star correspondent expelled from Egypt Sunday, said in a dispatch today that police had been seeking him for 24 hours since he challenged a key man in the Egyptian propaganda department to deny he was a former Nazi.

Stevenson said the man was Prof. Johann von Leers, an assistant to Dr. Joseph Goebbels during the Nazi regime in Germany and who fled after the war to Argentina to work for the Peron administration. The Star said the professor admitted his identity.

Stevenson, Eileen Travis of Buffalo, N.Y., correspondent for the London Daily Mail, and Ann Sharpley of the London Evening Standard were ordered out of Egypt yesterday in the biggest crackdown against the press since the beginning of the Suez Canal crisis.

The Toronto star correspondent, whose home is in Hong Kong, said on his arrival at Rome from Cairo, that he had a one-hour interview with the propagandist who "graduated from Hitler to Peron of Argentina to Nasser."

"He was a former key figure in the Nazi propaganda machine of Dr. Goebbels and had been a hunted man for 10 years."

"At our interview the professor said Nasser was better than Hitler because Hitler wanted to do everything in his own lifetime, while Nasser was prepared to take his time."

"The Egyptians had denied his existence," Stevenson said. "But when they saw Ann Sharpley and me leaving his place, the trouble started."

CAIRO (AP)—Egypt will reply tomorrow on the Menzies committee request for talks on the Suez Canal crisis, an official Egyptian source said today.

Usually reliable sources said they understand Nasser will agree to meet the committee in Cairo with the proviso that Egypt is not obligated to accept the plan.

Premier's Train Waits for Crews To Clear Tracks

By NORMAN CRIBBENS, Times Legislative Reporter

ABOARD PGE INAUGURAL TRAIN—The blaring of a brass band had scarcely died away this forenoon when the Pacific Great Eastern's inaugural train over the 40-mile $10,500,000 North Vancouver-Squamish extension was halted by a rock and mud slide.

The slide, at Horseshoe Bay, 17 miles northwest of Vancouver, covered hundreds of feet of shiny new track.

At 1 p.m., 40 men, two tractors and a crane started to clear the blockade. PGE officials, who would say only that "these things are to be expected," tentatively set 3:30 p.m. for departure of the first section from Horseshoe Bay.

The blockade was reported only a few minutes after Premier W. A. C. Bennett had addressed a crowd of 3,000 at North Vancouver who came to watch three PGE inaugural specials pull out.

There were 300 guests aboard the trains.

A battalion of newspaper, radio and TV men covering the inaugural run were 18 miles along the railroad when their special train was stopped because of the slide.

Premier Bennett's train was still at North Vancouver terminal when the slide came down.

The press train, which left at 9:30 a.m., got a rousing send-off from the crowd who had gathered to hear Premier Bennett's speech inaugurating the new railway link.

They waved flags and handkerchiefs, rent the air with noisemakers, and shouted farewells.

Just a few minutes earlier, C. R. Crysdale, consulting engineer with the PGE since it was begun in 1912, drove a copper spike marking completion of the last link in the Vancouver-Squamish section.

Premier Bennett, in black hat and grey overcoat, stood by, smiling triumphantly as with a hefty hammer stroke Mr. Crysdale drove the spike home.

Immediately afterwards rain fell heavily and many ran for shelter. But not Mr. Bennett.

"Ladies and gentlemen, boys and girls," he said, "This is a great day for us all—for you in North Vancouver, for those in the great north and for this government, which has fearlessly pushed this railroad through to completion."

"Next year we will have the railway running into the Peace River itself. And I hope that before too many years have gone by we shall be able, in cooperation with other governments on this continent, to extend the line into Alaska as well."

"This is the largest railway construction in all of North America in the last 30 years. It is paying great dividends now and will pay much greater dividends in years to come."

The premier, accompanied by members of his cabinet and their guests, drove in a motor parade from Vancouver court-house to the North Vancouver terminus early today.

They were given a motorcycle escort through the streets by Royal Canadian Mounted Police and Vancouver city police force, the procession moving slowly through a crush of motorists on their way to work.

At North Vancouver the procession fell in behind a Sea Cadets band followed by detachments of boy and girl Air Cadets. It was a holiday in North Vancouver and house-holders gazed through drizzling rain at the passing parade or stood in their gardens.

Jet planes screamed overhead.

FOR BENEFIT OF 'NEUTRALIST' NEHRU?

Ike Pinpoints Russian Nuclear Test Site

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—President Eisenhower's announcement that Russia has resumed nuclear weapons tests—possibly including a hydrogen blast—stood today as a challenge to the Soviet to publicize such tests in advance to reduce danger.

Eisenhower made public an Atomic Energy Commission report advising him that last Friday Russia detonated "a nuclear device with a yield less than a megaton." A megaton blast would have force equivalent to 1,000,000 tons of TNT.

In announcing Soviet resumption of tests, Eisenhower said in a statement he wants to emphasize again "the necessity for effective international control of atomic energy and such measures of adequately safeguarded disarmament as are now feasible."

REVEAL BLAST SITE

Eisenhower's report also officially made known for the first time the site of the Russian proving grounds. The report to

Eisenhower by AEC Chairman Lewis L. Strauss said:

"This proving ground, where most of the Soviet tests have occurred, is located in southwest Siberia, north of India, Afghanistan, and Pakistan, and west of China. In addition to this area the Soviets have also utilized the area of the Barents Sea, part of the Arctic Ocean, for nuclear testing."

Mention of the area being north of India was significant in the light of neutralist India's criticism of U.S. atomic tests.

It pointed up that under the Soviet policy of secrecy about such tests, adjacent areas get no advance warning of radioactive fall-out danger.

MARILYN SET TO HELP CLIFF

TORONTO (CP)—Swimmer Marilyn Bell flew home today to root for The Big Chief, the nickname for marathon swimmer Cliff Lumsdon, who is entered in the $29,000 Lake Ontario marathon scheduled for today.

As she stepped from her plane at Malton Airport, she had little to say about her own conquest last week of Juan de Fuca Strait.

Smiling happily she said she is eager to get into a boat and accompany Cliff in the marathon.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

HELP US, O GOD, to be honestly ourselves and devoted to Thy service. If we limp, may we limp toward Thee. If we stammer, may we stammer a word of witness to Christ our Savior. If we are a bit peculiar, find a little crooked spine, O God, where we may fit into the building of Thy kingdom; through Jesus Christ. Amen.

WRIGHT DESIGNING MILE-HIGH BUILDING

SPRING GREEN, Wis. (AP)—Architect Frank Lloyd Wright said Saturday he is working on plans for a 510-story, mile-high office building he hopes will be built on Chicago's lakefront.

If the structure becomes a reality, it will be the highest in the world, dwarfing such goliaths as the Empire State Building and the Chrysler Building in New York.

The world's tallest building now is the Empire State, measuring 1,250 feet and 1,472 feet with its TV antenna. The Chrysler building is 1,046 feet high.

Wright, world-famed, 87-year-old architect, said the building would house 100,000 employees of the State of Illinois, Cook County and the City of Chicago.

ACROSS THE PROVINCE

Runaway Bus Crushes BCE Driver to Death

(The Canadian Press) VANCOUVER—A 43-year-old B.C. Electric bus driver was crushed to death between two buses here late Saturday.

William Knight died when he tried to stop an unattended runaway bus from striking a second bus parked ahead.

The accident occurred at the Kootenay Street loop, a transit-turn-around point in the city's east end.

Seven other persons died in B.C. mishaps during the week-end.

Three persons died in the wreckage of the crash between a car and light truck 28 miles from Prince George, while a fourth died in hospital. Two others were seriously injured.

The victims were identified as David Ellis, 27, of nearby Giscome; Albert Thompson, 17, and Merle Welsh, 23, both of Sylvia, Sask., and Leo J. Guillett, 40, of Prince George, father of eight.

In hospital are Mrs. Guillett and Joseph Raymond of Montreal.

Mrs. Angela d'Appalonia, 38, of Coleman, Alta., died from injuries suffered Friday when the car in which she and her husband, Edward, were travelling, collided with a loaded lumber truck at Crowsnest.

Stephen Szapka, 38, of Prince Rupert, died in hospital Saturday of injuries received Aug. 19 when struck by a car that fled the scene.

Mrs. Bertha Lavina Jensen, 47, of Vancouver, was found dead in her gas-filled apartment. Three burners on the stove were turned on but unlit.

MASS SWIM

a 100-yard lead over Laughren and, 300 yards back, Billie Benedict was leading Janice White by 30 yards.

$250 PRIZE

Billie, fighting leg cramps in an effort to last out the required time, passed the six-hour mark and came out five minutes later, assured of her $250 prize.

The many accompanying boats closed in around Bill and Ben, fighting a private duel of their own, with Janice, swimming a variety of strokes while feeding on bologna sandwiches, remained a quarter-mile behind the men.

By 3.30, the swimmers were almost abreast of Race Rocks and Muir was ahead of Laughren by 200 yards, with Janice a half-mile back. The water was flat and a warm sun shone down.

At 4.30, Ben made his bid. He put on a spurt, churning the water with his overhand crawl, and succeeded in pulling into first place for the first time in nine hours.

Laughren managed to stay just a few lengths ahead of Muir and the swim settled down to becoming a battle of nerves rather than a race.

At 5.22, Janice came out. She explained, "I wasn't making any progress and I knew I couldn't catch up for a first or second-place finish."

Thirteen minutes later, Muir signalled that he was quitting.

IN GOOD SHAPE

He was still in excellent shape and said, "Ben and I could have stayed out there all day, waiting each other out. But we weren't making any progress towards getting to Port Angeles so I made the decision. I wasn't going to bust myself for the sake of an extra $250."

Laughren stayed in another seven minutes, just to make it official, and then he too came out of the water, 7½ miles from Port Angeles.

Marilyn Bell started the swim from Horseshoe Bay at 7.20 a.m. with a pistol shot and the 10 swimmers waded into the water, lined themselves up with their individual tender boats, and settled down to the grind.

Bill Goll, touted by Gus Ryder as the man to beat if he could take the cold, opened up an early lead with his beautifully perfected crawl.

The first flare went up after 57 minutes as Calgary's Robert Masslow gave in to cold and cramps and one minute later, Victorian Allan Small, with cramps in his legs, quit his unorthodox rolling sidestroke and left the swim.

Goll, no stranger to marathon swimming, was forced to give up his lead after one hour, 25 minutes as the cold penetrated his thick layer of grease compound and he was hauled out, shivering violently.

Then it was Anita Long, who had struck out on her own course and then Joan Biddle, who had assumed the lead until she, too, came out after two hours, 58 minutes. Anna Burian, sickened by exhaust fumes, stuck it out for almost 3½ hours until forced to quit and that set the stage for the four money winners.

After the swim, Laughren,

Britain Bares Cyprus Prelate As Terror Chief

Helped Select Assassins' Victims

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain Sunday named the exiled Archbishop Makarios as the mastermind of Union-With-Greece terrorism in Cyprus.

The government said he actually was involved in the "choice of individual victims for murder" in a terrorist campaign in which 15 persons have died on the strategic Mediterranean island.

Colonial Secretary Alan Lennox-Boyd said several thousand documents captured from the EOKA terrorist organization "prove beyond any doubt whatever" that the leader of the Greek Orthodox Church in Cyprus is the leader of the campaign to unite Cyprus with Greece.

The colonial secretary said these documents establish that George Grivas, a former Greek army officer believed to be the EOKA leader under the name of "Digenis," has been acting under the personal direction of Makarios.

Makarios has been exiled by Britain to the Seychelles islands in the Indian ocean.

The statement said that the documents, captured near Famagusta, include portions of a Grivas' personal diary.

AIDED SMUGGLERS

Extracts now published, the statement continued, "established beyond all doubt:

"That Archbishop Makarios personally took a leading part in the foundation and initial operation planning of the EOKA organization.

"That he personally provided money for the smuggling of arms into Cyprus which were to be used for the murder of his fellow countrymen and members of the (British) security forces."

The colonial secretary added:

"Much of the criticism to which I and my colleagues have been subjected about the treatment and the deportation of Archbishop Ma-

Trans-Pacific Plane Forced To Turn Back

VANCOUVER (CP)—A four-engine plane with 30 passengers aboard, including Australian External Affairs Minister Richard Casey, was forced to return Sunday to Vancouver's International airport on three engines.

The Canadian Pacific Airlines plane, bound for Honolulu, left Vancouver at 3 p.m. PDT and returned more than two hours later. Crash equipment was standing by at the airport when it landed safely.

A CPA spokesman said the fourth engine in the DC6B aircraft was shut off by the pilot because a meter showed its power to be below standard.

Cowichan Roads Will Form Arterial Highway

CHEMUNUS—Reeve C. A. P. Munson announced today a portion of the old Island Highway will be incorporated into a new provincial highway linking Lake Cowichan and Crofton Ferry Road.

The reeve reported the new arterial highway would connect Cowichan Lake Road, all of Herd Road, down the Trans-Canada Highway to Mt. Sicker Road, Mt. Sicker Road to Pinson's Corner and Pinson's Corner to the Crofton Road and the ferry wharf.

The reeve also announced that as a result of the municipality's protest on the proposed route of the B.C. Power Commission's power line from the new plant at Bare Point, the commission has agreed to move the line south about 1,000 feet. It will now pass through a rural instead of residential area.

TRAINING IN CANADA FOR GERMAN AIRMEN?

BADEN-SOELLINGEN, Germany (CP) — The Canadian government is giving consideration to the possibility of training German pilots in Canada, says Defence Minister Ralph Campney.

Campney, on a tour of Canadian defence establishments in Europe, made the statement on Saturday at a press conference attended mainly by German reporters. The German correspondents wanted to know about Canadian plans to replace four of the Sabre jet squadrons in France and Germany with CF-100 jet all-weather interceptors and details of the gift of 15 Canadian Sabres worth $39,000,000 to the German Air Force.

Campney said the Sabres will be ready for transfer about the end of the year. The United States Air Force already is training German aircrew and it is understood NATO wants Canada to train German pilots under its NATO aircrew training program.

Admitted Killer, in Jail 10 Years, Had Unfair Trial, Lawyer Claims

MONTREAL (CP) — Arthur Maloney, Toronto lawyer, has submitted a report to Justice Minister Garson urging immediate release of Louis Bercovitz, of Montreal, now serving a life sentence for the 1946 shooting of underworld boss Harry Davis.

The Montreal Herald says the 25,000-word report urged the release on the grounds that Bercovitz was convicted at an "unfair trial."

In Toronto, Mr. Maloney said that he was acting on behalf of Mrs. Bercovitz and not in his capacity as secretary of the Canadian Bar Association's committee on the administration of criminal justice. However, he said, he appended his committee title to the report sent to Ottawa.

In Ottawa, the office of Justice Minister Garson said the Maloney submission was received today and will be studied by the minister on his return from holidays later this week.

Mr. Maloney said the report was the result of a year-long investigation of the case.

Bercovitz, now 47, was originally charged with murder in the revolver slaying of Davis in a downtown gambling house. The jury reduced the charge to one of manslaughter.

Bercovitz admitted shooting Davis, but claimed at his trial that he did so in self-defence when the gambler pulled a gun on him. Mr. Maloney said the report charged grave irregularities in the trial. It charged Mr. Justice Wilfrid Lazure with misdirecting the jury, pointed to changes in testimony tantamount to perjury by a chief Crown witness and felt vital evidence had been "unfairly withheld" from the jury.

WITH SHELL'S SAFE DRIVING QUIZ NO. 13

How sharp is your driving eye?

TAKE A PENCIL AND FOLLOW THE INSTRUCTIONS BELOW AS QUICKLY AS POSSIBLE!

1. Circle the two signs that are exactly alike

2. Circle the car that is indicating a left turn

3. Circle the two road signs that are exactly alike

Alert drivers go places—safely!

SEE HOW YOU RATE

1. Did you circle the first and the fourth signs? Or did you rush too much and mark the wrong ones? Small details are important to drivers. Can you spot them quickly, and interpret them correctly?
2. Assuming that the cars' brake lights are not lit, you should have circled the second car. In traffic you often have to figure out what the driver ahead is going to do while other things are distracting you.
3. The second and fifth signs are alike. The lesson learned in Answer 1 applies here too.

Safe driving is more than an art. It's a state of mind. It's you when you're alert. You see what's on the road ahead; automatically you know how to handle any situation. It's you when you're courteous. You have the right of way, but you yield it. It's you when you drive a safe car. Above all, therefore, safety is a full-time job—and Shell hopes you'll think it's a worthwhile job. The rewards are great: Safe and happy trips for you and your family.

The Central Engine

CANADA IS ATTEMPTING AT the moment to keep a great boom under reasonable control, to hold down prices and prevent a bust later on.

But actually the great forces of inflation or deflation are not in our control. They arise in the American economy next door and instantly spread, for better or worse, across the border and into the four corners of the earth. For the American economy is now the central engine of the world economy.

For that reason the world in general and Canada in particular (because our economy is so intimately linked with that of our neighbors) are vitally concerned in the fiscal debate launched at the American political conventions.

While it may have been lost in the rush and overshadowed by the eloquence of Mr. Stevenson, a statement made by Mr. Truman at the Democratic convention was of the highest importance.

He said he knew more about the finances of the American Government than any man alive and went on to denounce the Eisenhower administration for raising interest rates. As a result of this increase, he said, the cost of supporting the national debt had risen from about $5 billions to about $7 billions a year—a heavy burden on the taxpayers.

At the same time, said Mr. Truman, the little man anxious to build a house, or the little businessman wishing to expand his business, had to pay unnecessarily high prices for borrowed money. All this, in Mr. Truman's opinion, is a sample of the Republican Party's brutal treatment of the poor and its championship of the rich.

It is difficult to conceive a more irresponsible statement from a statesman who, in office, made some of the greatest and wisest decisions in American history. But then, Mr. Truman was never notable for economic knowledge.

After the war he pursued an inflationary policy, fearing a great depression, and the great boom and the great inflation quickly followed.

Soon he was attempting to hold down prices by direct and unworkable controls while increasing the money supply and generating more inflation.

Actually the Republican administration's management of the money system has been its largest single achievement to date. The stability of prices, until a few months ago, did not occur by accident. It came mainly from the wise policies of the Federal Reserve Board and the President's refusal to interfere with that non-political agency. Mr. Eisenhower never did a wiser or more courageous thing than when he allowed the Board to raise interest rates—over the protest of Republican politicians—even though this raised the current cost of the public debt.

The Board was right in foreseeing inflation last spring and the politicians, including the able secretary of the treasury, Mr. Humphrey, was wrong in predicting the opposite.

All that is water over the dam. The question now is whether the Democratic Party will follow Mr. Truman in his attack on interest rates and his demand for a policy certain to generate more inflation.

While it is not for Canadians to meddle in American domestic politics, the credit policies stemming out of the present election are certain to affect us immediately. We shall inherit the American price level through our daily trade with the United States. Inflation or deflation will pay no attention to the imaginary political line of the border.

A Canadian government can only do its best in this continental and world-wide problem. It cannot isolate this country from the continental economy. And here, as in the United States, any government which undertakes the sound, unpleasant remedies needed to maintain the value of the dollar is bound to incur the same sort of criticism that Mr. Truman and others are now levelling at the American Government.

The Best Candidate

THE LEADERS OF THE C.C.F. and the Liberal Party both reject as quite impractical the suggestion that they should make election deals in various British Columbia constituencies to avoid splitting the Opposition's vote.

No doubt this proposal, advanced by Mr. Moore, a former C.C.F. member of the Legislature, is impractical; not only impractical but unsound, since the C.C.F. and the Liberal Party are not in agreement on basic policies.

Mr. Moore knows that, of course. As we understand it, he does not suggest anything like a joint approach to the election but only that in certain ridings, where an outstanding C.C.F. or Liberal candidate is running, the voters who are opposed to the Government should forget their party views for the moment and unite behind that candidate and elect him.

Various possibilities of this sort will come immediately to mind in the constituencies of Victoria and the Island. Candidates like Mr. Gregory and Mr. Gibbs, for example, will certainly receive many votes that, under other conditions, would go to the C.C.F. In other places many normally Liberal voters will probably support a C.C.F. candidate without accepting C.C.F. policies, rather than splinter the Opposition's strength and assure a minority Social Credit victory.

As Mr. Strachan and Mr. Laing have said, these things cannot be arranged from the top and no attempt should be made to arrange them. But party leaders do not control the great mass of voters, even those friendly to them. The average voter will make up his own mind and he will remember that this election is by no means normal or orderly.

Mr. Bennett has made sure that it would be abnormal by calling it before the public can hear certain vital evidence about the Government. The division of the Opposition has made the election so disorderly that the Government could easily win a large legislative majority on a minority vote.

Under these conditions it is to be expected that any Opposition candidate who obviously has a good chance of election will receive support from voters who may not agree altogether with his party's policy but are determined to register an effective protest against the Government. The reputation of the individual candidate is likely to play a much larger part than usual in this chaotic election.

The End of Steel

TODAY'S FORMAL OPENING OF the southern extension of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway marks an important step in the life of the provincially owned line. Prince George now has direct rail connection with North Vancouver, the booming central region of British Columbia has a steel tie with the coastal metropolitan area.

What this means in convenience is obvious. What it may mean economically has yet to be proved although the ultimate growth of the province augurs a good future.

But today's railroading ceremonies are overshadowed by the political implications of the event. It can hardly be a coincidence that the official opening, and the triumphal journey over the whole length of the line, with stops for speeches at every water tank and hamlet, were planned in the midst of a hot election campaign.

For some, the brilliance of the occasion may help to hide more serious aspects of the election. If this is so, the rest of the province may consider itself as the financier of an election appeal on the grand scale. Premier Bennett is to be complimented on today's achievement. But it is unfortunate that so important an event has been converted into a political spectacle. The PGE, after all its years of struggle, deserves more than this.

May Others Take Warning

A YEAR IN PRISON IS A stiff sentence for any youth. Yet the penalties imposed on two young men last week for acts of vandalism in Beacon Hill Park are not extreme in view of the offence. It is to be hoped that in this case particularly the punishment will act as a deterrent to others who may be tempted.

Quite apart from the cost of repairs and replacements, the destruction of public property in a park is a serious offence. It is obviously impossible to guard every part of a park day and night. It is disturbing to think that such protection should be necessary.

To smash more than a hundred dollars worth of glass in a lookout built mainly for the comfort and convenience of elderly folk is a despicable thing. It is far beyond a childish prank; it is the act of a person who is stupid to the point of public danger. There has been too much of this sort of thing in Victoria.

The police are to be congratulated for their prompt work in apprehending at least two of the culprits. May others inclined toward destruction take warning.

When Handing Out the Old Baloney

THE TOUCH OF MAGIC

Why the Crowds Turned Out

OF COURSE, if you want to be scientific and logical about it, all the fuss over Marilyn Bell was pretty silly. Imagine all those thousands of people rushing out of their houses with the supper dishes not washed and crawling over rocks and clay cliffs to watch a little girl from another city swim in to a not very attractive beach and then go away again in a row-boat. Stripped down to the bare physical facts the whole proceeding was crazy and each person over 16 in that huge crowd ought to get a red face every time he thinks of it.

Tobin

But, as in so many other phases of life, the bare physical facts were the least important part of the whole event. A few minutes of drama—the splashing little arrival and the quick departure into the dusk—were only the stage setting for something much greater.

Real Essence

The scene itself could be described in a paragraph or two. The spirit of the thing, the real essence of it, might take a book. For tied up in that brief encounter were all the vast qualities that make man more than an animal, that make history more than a procession of dates and facts, that make humanity worth preserving.

The inner core of it was the magic secret that man has preserved down through the ages—the spark that was struck dim eons ago in some throbbing breast, jealously guarded through generations of cave and pastoral civilization, flowering in such stirring eras as those of Egypt, Greece and Rome, hoarded through the dark night of the Middle Ages, rising in the colorful days of Elizabeth and Victoria, and now facing perhaps its greatest test in a world of robots, super-organization and atomic energy.

This Alone

It is this spark alone that will save man from becoming a robot himself, fit only to take his place in line with the mechanical monsters he has created. It is this tiny flame alone that will maintain light and warmth for the world in the cold, cosmic night that surrounds it.

What is this spark, this flame? It is the miraculous ability to see beyond material things; to perceive greatness in the mundane, and glory in the great.

That appreciation may be roused by big events: the Londoner striding through his battered streets a dozen years ago walked proudly, for the glory was upon him. It may rise in a welling of emotion at the crowning of a Queen, for every phase of our monarch's coronation was touched with the magic. At the other extreme it may be stirred by a freckle-faced youngster paddling ashore to conquer the tides and waves of a cold strait.

For the common element in all these events was the spirit.

Could you describe survival in the Battle of Britain merely as not having any bricks fall on you? Is a coronation the act of placing a piece of metal on a person's head? Was the conquest of Everest merely a walk up hill? Was Marilyn's crossing of the Strait merely a girl swimming 18 miles?

Seeds of Glory

On whatever level of human importance these acts may be placed, each contained within itself the seeds of glory. Though the mechanical eye of a camera would see in them only material facts, the human eye can peer deeper and recognize a radiance that reduces the facts to mere background.

Thus the cheering thousands on the shore the other evening were rendering tribute to things of the spirit—they were there to applaud courage, determination, the pluck of man in the frailty of a girl, the victory of a beating heart over the inanimate sea.

For each man, woman and child there it was a personal victory. Marilyn did not win alone, she won as their representative.

In Miniature

Ever since man first stood erect and dared the storm on his rocky hilltop the struggle with nature has gone on. In the last analysis it can be won only by his inner quality, and the Strait victory was a microcosm of that age-old struggle. Therefore those crowds were not foolish. They were playing a scene from the life of our race, a fragment of the drama that has been going on since the dawn of human existence and will continue until the final curtain.

That final scene may be a grim one. It will depict the last survivor perhaps in a sudden inferno of nuclear annihilation or in the frozen silence of a dead solar system millions of years hence.

But if the human spark has been kept alive, if the magic secret is still guarded, his last look will be upward, his last gasp one of defiance. And somewhere in the cosmos the watching hosts of countless generations of man will pay him tribute.

Aug. 27, 1916 — The local and mainland pilots were unusually active yesterday in handling inbound and outbound deep-sea tonnage. A total of five ocean carriers came and went, making busy scenes at the port of Victoria.

As Our Readers See It

Grain of Salt

There is a 50 million dollar investment in autos and trucks in Victoria and district, 4% of which is $2,000,000, which is the amount of the damage this investment will suffer, by the City Engineer's computation, if salt is used to thaw snow on Victoria's streets, to save how much—a few thousand dollars a year at most.

J. P. THORNTON.

943 Wilmer street.

Foreign Monopolies

If you are not worried over this new economic feudalism, you stand almost alone.

Your rival on Nov. 5, 1935, headlined "BCFP Sells Control to U.S." In the article following wrote: "The big deal between Scott and the B.C. Forest Products is the third in the past three years."

On page 12 of the B.C. Bureau of Economics and Statistics, Summary of Business Activity, 1935, "Early in November, 1934, the New York firm of Rayonier Inc. purchased 80 per cent interest in Alaska Pine and Cellulose."

I would like your honest opinion on these sellouts of our resources to United States interests and whether these monopolies by foreign capital are not a danger to our democratic freedoms and to our national independence.

FRANK SNOWSELL.

480 Marigold road.

Strait Records

Without detracting from Miss Marilyn Bell's magnificent swim one iota, it seems as though the newspapers have overlooked two facts and thereby deprived Canada of a swim record.

The papers have consistently lumped Miss Bell's south-to-north crossing with Mr. Cliff Lumsdon's north-to-south crossing of the Juan de Fuca and come up with the decision that Miss Bell holds the record crossing.

This, of course, is true in a "stop-watch" sense but does not deal with reality.

Mr. Lumsdon is the only man in the world to have swum the Strait from Victoria to Port Angeles. His time, therefore, cannot be compared with any other swim because no one, except him, has made that swim.

In my humble opinion it will be some time before his feat is equalled. And when it is, it will be by another male swimmer of the same stature.

As for Miss Bell, her record stands on its own merit. She is the first swimmer to swim from Port Angeles proper to Victoria proper. She holds the record time.

Or, to make our point, Miss Bell's swim and Mr. Lumsdon's swim are two different swims, just as the France-to-England swim is adjudged differently from the England-to-France swim.

In the matter of the Juan de Fuca Strait both records are held by Canadians who were in no sense competitors.

PHILIP LEE.

Dual Nature

Although Mr. H. V. O'Reilly does not name the man of science who defended religion he appears to resent his doing so.

The word science, he tells us, is derived from Latin scire to know. It therefore means knowledge and includes the highest of all knowledge, religion, which is founded on Divine Revelation through Christ whose life, death, and resurrection, have been well authenticated and acknowledged for centuries.

Physical science concerns material things and is useful in its place, as we know, but it must not be deified.

Religion relates to God, the soul, the intelligence, the will, moral conduct, eternal destiny, spiritual things. Physical science is organized knowledge of material things. Each has its place in the dual nature of man and they ought to be as united as the soul and the body among men.

F. E. BROWNE.

Glorious Battle

Churchill would, I know, honor the quote of his words "Blood, Sweat and Tears," for on the streets, the cliffs and the hills of Victoria we saw history in the making, and a glorious battle fought and won by Marilyn Bell as her heart, mind and body transcended every obstacle to put Canada on the map in a demonstration of courage rarely witnessed in one so young.

M. WORTHINGTON-LAKE.

851 Maddison street.

Afraid of Oblivion

Readers of our daily papers must be blind if they don't observe the growing space religious subjects occupy.

Only a few years ago, very little space was given to religious propaganda; now hardly a page is devoid of some article of a religious nature.

Seldom does an issue of any city paper appear without the picture of a priest, bishop or preacher of some sort either alone or with some legislative gathering or convocation.

To say religion, particularly Roman subversion is not on the march with its victory banners held high aloft is contrary to the true situation.

Wake up you democratic dreamers, you rationalist sleepers, before the medieval religious battle-axe falls to bring you once again complete oblivion.

CANDID.

Eatanswill

Your correspondent Norman Cribbens makes fun of Social Crediters in Saanich by comparing them to the famous characters in Charles Dickens' Pickwick Papers. (See The Times of Aug. 18.)

I would remind him that the same chapter in this book, which was about the Eatanswill election, also makes fun of political journalists.

The Eatanswill Gazette referred to the Eatanswill Independent as "our reptile contemporary," whilst the Independent denounced The Gazette as "our degraded contemporary, wallowing in the slime of its editorial degradations."

Whilst The Times and the Colonist do not abuse each other in such terms, it may be noted that a certain swimming contest promoted recently by The Times has been repeatedly discredited by its contemporary The Daily Colonist, apparently because the Daily Colonist had no part in the promotion of this contest.

The Pickwick analogy, is not confined to followers of political parties—it goes farther and deeper.

No Marilyn Monroe

BY JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP, From San Francisco

ONE thing the Republican Convention which has just ended here has proved beyond dispute. The best professional techniques of the admen and the electronics experts are no substitute for the unique, peculiar and traditional American political processes. For weeks before the convention opened, there was a great deal of talk about how the Republican convention this year was to be something entirely new, a clean break with tradition. This year, the convention was not to be the usual messy and unpredictable chaos.

It was to be, instead, a production, a show, professionally staged, and designed, like any major television production, to beguile, and persuade the millions at their television sets. There was to be an absolute minimum of the traditional cliché-ridden politician oratory. There was to be an absolute maximum of pretty girls, pageants, performances, and general electronic hoop-la.

To hear the Republican impresarios talk, you would have thought that the politicians were to be almost entirely shunted aside in favor of, say, Mrs. Marilyn Monroe Miller, or Miss Kim Novak, or other proven attractions. In the event, instead of Marilyn Monroe, the televiewers got Mrs. Elphie Sjuln of Iowa, mother of nine and grandmother of twenty-five.

Mrs. Sjuln spoke, and very nicely too, for exactly ninety seconds, on the subject of "Morality." She was one of fifteen ladies who appeared on something called "The Women Speak," which was typical of the kind of "production" the Republican impresarios talked about so confidently.

Each of the fifteen ladies (one for each letter of the words "Republican Party") was accompanied by a young girl bearing a placard spelling out the chosen subject. The girls were pretty, but only fairly pretty, because they were volunteers, not professionals.

Some of the ladies spoke their pieces very well. But they were, for the most part, exactly like lady orators at any convention, with their iron curls, their sometimes quavering fervor, their impressive corsages, and their habit of bobbing their heads as if admonishing naughty children.

The harsh fact is that "The Women Speak" and the other productions dreamed up by the impresarios, were something less than electrifying, and a far cry from Marilyn Monroe. And the further harsh fact is that politics and the professional techniques of the advertising, entertainment, and television industries do not really mix very well.

They do not mix well because the main participants at any political occasion are not entertainers but politicians, which is a very different breed of cat. George Murphy, the Hollywood actor who rather frantically directed the convention proceedings, acknowledged as much in a chat with one of these reporters.

Trap Door

Some day, he said, conventions would be run as they ought to be run, in a proper theatre, with proper direction and control. Meanwhile, he said, he would be happy to settle for an automatic trap door to get rid of the politicians who insisted on speaking too long.

Even without his trap door, Murphy and the other able professionals from the communications industry, did succeed in making the convention run more smoothly than usual. But the fact remains that the convention was a tooth-aching bore, at least until the final climactic moment of the President's acceptance speech.

It was a tooth-aching bore partly because the outcome was foreordained, and there was none of the conflict and suspense which leads to the American political convention its peculiar fascination. But it was a bore also, in part, just because it was too smoothly run, and lacked the unpredictable messiness which also lends flavor to a convention.

New Kind

All this suggests, a lesson which the Republican high command might well ponder. Even before the President's illness, the word was passed at Republican headquarters that the campaign to follow the new kind of convention would also be a new kind of campaign.

Instead of the usual frantic beating of the bushes for voters, the strategy would centre on the techniques of the communications industry—five-minute spots, saturation campaigns, carefully planned full-length shows, and so on, with the President's role limited to a half dozen or so television appearances.

Obviously, television and the new communications techniques have introduced an important new element into American politics. But the experience of this convention clearly suggests that the new techniques are no adequate substitute for the old. And this in turn suggests that before very long the pressure on the President to take the stump, in the old traditional way, will be very heavy indeed.

Carefree

Because of the peculiar ways of papers, I'm writing this on the Thursday before you read it.

It's not the column that I meant to write because the day hasn't been the way I planned it.

The morning was so pleasant and so cool after Wednesday's heat, that I made the mistake of dawdling outdoors instead of rushing around with household tasks.

I dawdled while I picked Early Transparents for apple sauce. I dawdled while I sat outside cutting them up.

I picked far more Scarlet Runner beans than I meant to simply because it was cool and sweet in the vegetable garden and the view down the valley was lovely. I dawdled ever slicing them because it was a task I could do outside.

Then, rather than leave the delight of being out of doors, I went up the hill and picked enough blackberries for a good big pie.

Then, for half an hour or so, I helped sack up some potatoes. And all the time, I knew that I should be scurrying so that I'd have time for a column. I'd do it in the afternoon, I told myself.

But, in the afternoon, some friends from the interior arrived quite unexpectedly. Not having seen them for nearly 20 years, I thought to heck with the column. I'll do it after supper.

So we had cups of coffee instead and talked about camping places on the island. They'd all disappeared, my friends said.

For years they'd told the children about some of the places where they used to camp by rivers and beaches. They'd come down with sleeping bags and tent. But the old haunts had gone.

The forest on one stretch of road had been cut. The trail that used to lead down through the woods to the beach must have disappeared when the woods were cut. Several other old camping spots were fenced off, or had signs of private property.

At one of the provincial parks there wasn't a campsite left. They'd thought of going to Miracle Beach, but they'd been told that it was hopelessly overcrowded, and so they'd turned south again at Qualicum.

In other words, their trip had been a failure, and they were leaving the island two days sooner than they'd meant to.

I only pass this on in the hope that, somehow, in the next few years more money can be spent on developing campsites. The parks people know the need for them, but I sometimes wonder whether the general public realizes that the need for them will grow as the years go by and our population increases.

I meant to start the column the moment that my friends had gone, but by then it was time for milking and supper.

And, when they were over, I wanted to hear the finish of the Marilyn Bell swim. And after that, two different sets of people came in.

As an outdoor, casually social day, it's been a lot of fun. As a column-writing day, it's been a total failure.

But, somehow, when the mornings and evenings are so beautiful, I just can't take writing seriously.

Writing belongs to the winter months. It seems to have no place in the pagan months of summer.

Which is a hopeless attitude to take. I must stop being so carefree.

But, honestly, do you feel like working when the weather's summery and fine?

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Pocket Books Grow Up

LONDON—Pocket-sized books have just come of age. Today stacks of these little, inexpensive paper-backs are a commonplace in drugstores, at railway stations and so on. But before 1935 they didn't exist.

It was Sir Allen Lane who got the idea for them and printed the first ones—Penguins—in the crypt of a church on London's Euston road. Production at that time wasn't regular—the printing machines had to be silenced when a service was held up above.

I remember when the first Penguins came out, at what seems now the ridiculously low price of sixpence. The price of these editions has crept up with the rising cost of living. One shilling just after the war, 1s 6d in 1950 and now most of the latest ones are 3s.

But although they're now six times the price they used to be the public still seems to regard them as a bargain, for they are churned out of the Penguin plant now at the fantastic figure of 300,000 a day—seven and a half tons of them are sent out to the bookshops every day.

Such things as pocket books and the numerous other similar editions on the other side of the Atlantic appeared several years after the initial success in this country of Penguins, just as America trailed along after Britain had introduced tabloid newspaper, television, etc.

Even when you're doing nothing, do you know how busy you are? Professor A. M. Low says that even if you decide to have a lazy Sunday at home you'll do all these things: perspire 143 points, breathe 23,400 times while taking in 438 cubic feet of air, your blood will travel 168,000,000 miles and your heart will beat 103,389 times.

Author Evelyn Waugh, seeking a larger place for his family of six children, is selling his Gloucestershire home, Piers Court—including the notice on the front door—"No admission on business."

Pioneer in the fight against television keeping former customers at home and out of the pubs is Mrs. Peggy Hoare, manageress of The George in Slough, just outside London. She has introduced pub floor shows. Different acts are booked from London each week.

Other publicans are watching the experiment and if it continues to be as successful as it has so far they are likely to follow this idea of getting back their customers with live entertainment. I don't know how it works out in Canada but fighting fire with fire (i.e., installing television in bar) doesn't work out here.

Those who go to a pub for a social drink and conversation want "the confounded thing turned off" and those who want to watch it get annoyed at anyone talking or spoiling their view. It will take some years yet for television to find its proper place within the English way of life. Meantime, floor shows in a pub are a pleasant novelty—for those who live around Slough at any rate.

ask Andy

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Craig London, aged 10, of Oakland, Calif., for his question:

What Exactly Is Ink?

Even the government is interested in this fluid which we use for writing. A scrap of paper is stolen or lost. This may lead to a tale of trouble and adventure. For the bit of paper is a signed document. The signature makes it important. A signature is a person's name written by himself. The law accepts that document as proof that he read the paper and agreed to it. Produce the signed document and he can be held to his promise. There are tales of signatures written in ink which fades and becomes invisible. The law is also interested in this and all matters concerning tricky signatures. But some signatures have faded through no trickery. The ink was unable to stand the test of time, light or moisture. The law is also interested in this.

In America, the quality of writing ink is protected by federal law. If you wish to make and sell ink, your recipe must be government approved. Standard blue-black ink may be made from the following ingredients. The fluid base is a litre of distilled water. Dissolved in it are 5 grams of gallic acid crystals, 7.5 grams of ferrous sulphate crystals, 1 gram of tartaric acid, and 3.5 grams of soluble blue dye.

The dyes and metallic salts work together to form an ink that will endure. As the air fades the dye it darkens the ink. It writes with a clean, neat line and does not penetrate through the paper. A good writing ink does not cake in the bottle, it does not separate so that you have to shake before using. It will not injure the rubber or plastic parts of a fountain pen. Most ink manufacturers improve on the standard recipe with trade secrets of their own.

There are many inks besides writing ink. Each calls for a special recipe. Laundry ink is made to withstand the water and chemicals in the washing machine. It is often made of silver nitrate and ammonia in water. India ink is made from carbon dust, glue, soap and water. This black, shiny drawing ink is waterproof though it often tends to cake in the bottle and eat into metal pens. There are printing inks and colored inks of all kinds. New recipes are invented as different needs arise.

A new ink was invented when the ball point pen was invented. The dyes and metallic salts of fluid ink were molded into solid sticks. Ink was invented by both the Chinese and the Egyptians. They molded their ingredients into solid sticks and dissolved them as needed. So maybe our new idea is not so new.

The oldest recipes used carbon dust and powdered gum. The gum formed a glue to stick the black carbon onto the paper or papyrus. Some of the old writings stand out clear and black after 4,000 years. Our modern inks are even more durable. So read all the words and the fine print before you take pen in hand to sign that important document.

No sensible person will use trick ink to cheat. But here are two recipes to amuse the members of secret societies. Starch and water makes an invisible ink. So does lemon juice and water. The invisible lemon ink will turn brown over a low flame. Invisible starch ink turns blue in a solution of iodine.

How Much Does a Baby Elephant Weigh?

A baby elephant takes his time growing up. After all, he has a long way to go. At birth, the young fellow stands only three feet high at shoulder level. However, he is no lightweight. He may weigh around 200 pounds. Full grown, he may stand 13 feet high at shoulder level and weigh over six tons.

The new baby is covered with coarse black hair. He loses it before he loses his baby teeth. The baby tusks drop out when he is six months old. Junior feeds on mother's milk for about two years. He stays close to mom for another two years. He considers himself an adult at 14 years of age though he may grow for a few more years.

At forty, Mr. Elephant grows his last wisdom tooth. He can still expect to enjoy life for another 20 to 30 years.

Learner Fined $60 After Saanich Crash

An 18-year-old youth who collided with a parked car while learning to drive was fined $60 in Saanich court Thursday and lost his right to drive for the next six months.

Melvin R. Chapman, 111 Homer, admitted he was driving without an adult accompanying him as required by his learner's licence.

Wife's Life? Or Baby's? Man May Have to Decide

NEWCASTLE, Eng. (AP)—A woman who has lain in a coma for 100 days with a brain injury is expecting a baby.

If 22-year-old Ellen Moore does not recover consciousness soon, doctors say her young salesman husband could be faced with a terrible choice—whether the life of the mother or of her unborn baby should be saved. The baby is due in three months.

Mrs. Moore has been in the general hospital here since a heavy log, falling from a passing truck, hit her as she was wheeling her 18-month-old son Paul in a baby buggy.

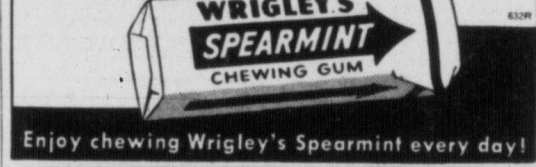

Since her deep sleep began, she has uttered only three words: "Paul... mother... baby..."

Each night her husband, Kenneth, has watched by her bedside for four hours.

"I just sit there hoping she will show some little signs of coming around," he said. "But day after day, week after week, and now month after month, it has been the same report: 'No change in her condition.' It is terrible."

Brock Chisholm Enters Politics

To Be Tory Candidate In Esquimalt Riding

Internationally-renowned psychiatrist and former head of the World Health Organization, Dr. Brock Chisholm, said today he will allow his name to be forwarded by Esquimalt Conservatives in the provincial election Sept. 19.

He was approached to run a few days ago. It will be his first entry into active politics.

Association president Mrs. C. T. Hayes said today regarding the nomination "I don't believe there will be any opposition."

From his Otter Point home Dr. Chisholm said: "I've done a great deal of work in various international fields, and I believe very strongly that international work stems from local politicians."

For this reason the doctor said, he would enter the provincial political field.

SEMI-RETIRED

Dr. Chisholm, 60, has been in semi-retirement the last three years, although maintaining a busy schedule of university and conference lectures which have taken him throughout the continent and other parts of the world.

Among important posts held by the new candidate have been those of director general of medical services for the Canadian army and deputy health minister in Ottawa.

He will be nominated in Colwood Hall Friday at 8 p.m. It was announced today also, city insurance man Justin Harbord, is standing for nomination as Tory candidate in Oak Bay.

Nomination meeting is Thursday at 8 p.m. in St. Mary's Hall. Candidates in the three-seat Victoria riding will be named by the Conservatives tonight at Louheed Hall, and by the CCF at Woodsworth Hall, where Colin Cameron, CCF MP for Nanaimo, will be main speaker.

MAN CHARGED WITH ASSAULT

John H. Twist, Victoria, was remanded without plea to Tuesday in city court today on a charge of assault occasioning bodily harm in connection with an entry to a woman's apartment last Thursday.

Mrs. Joy Kershaw, 1025 Meares, told officers she was awakened by a bare-chested man standing beside her bed at 1.50 a.m. She screamed, the man struck her, and she struggled free. Police acted on her description of the attacker.

Tuna Excitement Grips Fishermen

Conditions for tuna in B.C. waters are the best they have been in three years, Capt. W. Earnshaw of the fisheries patrol craft Kitimat reported here today.

The Kitimat returned from a tuna hunt off the west coast of Vancouver Island Sunday. She was under tow to the RCN tug Heatherston following an engine breakdown off Cape Flattery which cut short her patrol.

"I wish we could have had another day out there," the captain said. "I am convinced we should not give up the search yet."

"The only drawback is feed could be a bit more plentiful, but all other conditions point to tuna."

The patrol craft landed one 17-pounder 140 miles off the mouth of the Columbia before the engine breakdown called a halt to her patrol.

Major damage, including chewed gears, was incurred. A call for aid to the Air Sea Rescue centre at Vancouver was quickly relayed to the U.S. Coast Guard, and cutter 4422 took Kitimat in tow to the shelter of Neah Bay.

There the Esquimalt-based tug Heatherston took over and brought Kitimat to its inner harbor berth. She will be laid up for a lengthy period.

NO EVIDENCE

He found plenty of excitement among west coast fishermen over tuna prospects, but no evidence of fish caught as yet. The troller Rosalie I of Vancouver has packed up salmon fishing for the season, re-rigged for tuna, and is today heading for the grounds off Point Estevan.

Rosalie I will work south until she hits a tuna run.

Captain Earnshaw talked by radiophone with the U.S. fishboat Kiska, which reported taking 236 tuna off Newport Friday, a slightly smaller number Saturday.

"There's a definite possibility we'll raise tuna in commercial quantities off the B.C. coast this year."

Salmon trollers can re-rig for tuna in a matter of hours, he said, and he expected a large number would fish tuna if the run develops.

TUESDAY MEETINGS

Victoria Kiwanis: Empress Hotel, luncheon at 12.10 p.m. Tony Emery will speak on "British Columbia Artists."

North Kiwanis: Monterey Restaurant, dinner at 6.15 p.m. President Ed Bowden-Green and vice-president Hugh Ferguson will report on the Salem convention.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—I have a Queen Victoria two-cent Canadian postage stamp. It is approximately the same as some of ours today, but it has the Queen Victoria head. Will you tell me its approximate value? W.F.

A.—The Times is informed by R. M. Angus who has had long experience in handling stamps which attract the attention of collectors that the value of yours is less than five cents. Vast numbers of Canadian postage stamps were issued during the long reign of Victoria. Commemorative issues were put out in 1897 and 1898, but specimens of either of those dates have little premium value because there are so many of them still in existence.

FLEET ASSEMBLES FOR START OF MASS SWIM

Horseshoe Bay hummed with activity shortly after 7 a.m. Sunday morning at the start of the first annual Mass Swim over the Strait of Juan de Fuca. With the crack of a pistol and the cheers of 300 onlookers, the 10 contestants plunged into the water while over 30 vessels, ranging from punts to the navigating tug, Island Champion, jockeyed for position. The swim was hailed as a marked success and plans are being made to make it bigger next year. (Times Photos by Bill Halkett.)

BETWEEN TIMES By MONTE ROBERTS

Once upon a long, long time ago (namely, yesterday):

Ten plucky swimmers started in a line, One got a tummy ache, then there were nine.

Nine plucky swimmers, swimming in the Strait, One got pneumonia, then there were eight.

Eight plucky swimmers, motors all a-revvin', One got a mouthful, then there were seven.

Seven plucky swimmers, out to show their tricks, One got much too chilly, then there were six.

Six plucky swimmers, all glad to be alive, One got a leg cramp, then there were five.

Five plucky swimmers sought the distant shore, One got mighty tired, then there were four.

Four plucky swimmers, fighting 'gainst the sea, One got ocean-happy, then there were three.

Three plucky swimmers, out in the wind-swept blue, One got awful hungry, then there were two.

Two plucky swimmers, watching whitecaps run, One got in the doldrums, and then there was one.

One plucky swimmer, swimming all alone, So he took top money, and the first boat home.

IT NOW GIVES ME MUCH PLEASURE TO ANNOUNCE A CLOSED SEASON ON STRAIT SWIMMING, EFFECTIVE IMMEDIATELY.

(The loud cheers you hear are from reporters, radio-men, photographers, and Harold B. Elworthy, who hopes he may now have a towboat available for towboating.)

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

Minor injuries were sustained by three Victoria boys as a result of weekend accidents. Two were admitted to hospital.

Saanich police took three-year-old Gary Hamilton, Oldfield Road, to St. Joseph's Hospital, where he was admitted Sunday with head and leg injuries following collision with a car.

Jamey Simpson, 14, 1275 Balmoral, was taken to St. Joseph's by city police for treatment for leg and arm injuries received when his bicycle collided with the open door of a parked car about 3.15 p.m. Sunday. He was discharged.

The third youngster, L. Kent, 600 Brookleigh, was X-rayed and treated for shock at Jubilee Hospital after he was thrown from a horse. He was admitted.

Eighty reserve air force trades training personnel will graduate Thursday night from 2455 Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron (Aux.) headquarters, Yates at Quadra.

The 60 boys and 20 girls will be inspected and addressed by Wing Commander R. T. Paul, chief training officer of 5 Air Division, Vancouver, then move off to conduct a sunset ceremony on the legislature lawns at 8 p.m.

Some of the most productive hens in Saanich today started an egg-laying contest.

Sponsored by the Saanichon fair, nine poultrymen each have entered five hens which will be laying until the opening of the exhibition Sept. 1.

Poultrymen have entered some top birds. In a pre-contest "warm up" quite a few of the hens laid two eggs in a day.

The Spanish ambassador to Canada, Eduardo Propper de Calleja, will visit Victoria for two days later this week, the vice consulate in Vancouver said today.

ONE OF THE PRE-SWIM FAVORITES, William Goll of New Jersey, held the early lead until he was knocked out of action by the cold. The marathon veteran was shivering and numb when he was transferred to a waiting cabin cruiser after leaving the water.

SLENDER JOAN BIDDLE, daughter of Canon Biddle, at one time led the swim with her steady breaststroke. However, she was forced to clamber over the stern of her tender boat after two hours, 58 minutes.

STRAIT KICKS UP HEELS AS SWIM SEASON ENDS

The Strait of Juan de Fuca itself closed the swimming season Sunday, just minutes after the conclusion of the Mass Swim.

Either in celebration or protest, the Strait kicked up its heels in a blow that produced five-foot waves and gave boats in the swim flotilla a battering as they returned to Victoria.

The navigation vessel, Island Champion, turned back on the return trip to pick up a small inboard motorboat that held two young boys, Tony Cox, 15, and Bill Buxton, 17, nine miles from Victoria. The Champion took the boys and their boat aboard and took them in to Victoria.

I'VE GOT SO MANY PEOPLE TO THANK'

Thousands Cheer Marilyn

By AB KENT

Nearly a third of Greater Victoria clamored in the streets Saturday to pay tribute to Marilyn Bell before she went home, a champion of Juan de Fuca Strait.

Victoria's sweetheart, her coach Gus Ryder and members of her swimming team paraded across half the city, cheered by 25,000 citizens, arrived at Beacon Hill Park for a civic reception attended by another 4,500-5,000, then returned to Oak Bay through still-thronged thoroughfares.

Marilyn and Gus, in a convertible, led the procession of more than a dozen cars.

Ald. Austin Curtis escorted Marilyn and Gus to the platform steps, where a 10-year-old admirer, Susan Johnson, 406 Vancouver, darted out with a big bouquet for the teen-aged swimmer.

The crowd, milling in the southwest playing field, broke out from time to time with cheers for Marilyn.

Acting mayor Ald. W. F. Pinfold gave the city's congratulations.

Ald. Pinfold said the city would take immediate steps to have the bay—sometimes called Stony Beach—where Marilyn landed after her record-making swim Thursday, called Marilyn Bell Bay.

"I don't know where to begin," the Toronto school girl said. "I'm so happy... I've got so many people to thank."

"It was really wonderful to see all those happy faces on shore Thursday night."

There were so many, so closely packed along the cliffs and standing in the surf, she thought at first they were a huge flower garden.

Her thanks went to Gus: "It's the fourth time he's brought me through."

She thanked her navigator, Capt. Ellice Cavin: "I'm sure

I wouldn't have got here if you didn't know where you were going."

H. B. Elworthy, Island Tug & Barge, was thanked for his co-operation and generosity; The Times and Toronto Telegram, co-sponsors.

"I wouldn't have got here without them—I felt everyone was with me"; her mother and father and sister, "they gave me all the encouragement possible. Thank you, everyone."

Gus was given a silver medal bearing the city's coat of arms and an inscription marking his dual coaching victory of the past two weeks.

He praised Canada's teenagers, "regardless of what anyone says, I believe in them implicitly."

Of Capt. Cavin he said: "There's a home-town idol. I go back with the greatest love for Victoria and her wonderful people."

Marilyn and Gus were given paintings by Victoria artist Owen Goward, depicting Strait scenes.

"We hope 20 years from now when Marilyn is settled down and raising her own channel swimmers, she will look at these and say, 'that's what mommy did,'" said Stuart Keate, Times publisher.

The crowd sang "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows," gave three cheers and a tiger.

GUS AND MARILYN face part of the huge crowd at Beacon Hill reception.

ABOUT 15,000 PERSONS crowded over curbs downtown Saturday afternoon when Gus, Marilyn and their swim party paraded to Beacon Hill Park for civic recognition.

Five Ounces of Honey Fill Novel Pottery Bee

By PENNY SAVER

What could be sweeter than honey from the honey bee? A giant pottery honey bee that rests on wrought iron legs holds five ounces of fresh honey, for your breakfast toast or for waffles. The wings form the lid that closes tightly with a rubber ring on the inside. This would make a very nice gift for someone. Once emptied, it can be refilled with more honey, or with jam or jellies. The bee and honey cost $2.65.

Birthday candles are items that will be in demand so long as we keep on having birthdays, but now you can buy ones that are a little different from the types you've been seeing year after year. The ones I found are about four times regular size, and are gracefully twisted in spirals. A box of 12, with six colors to a box, costs 27 cents.

For many who like to putter around the garden, here's a handy pocket knife that will have many uses. From one end comes a sturdy blade, and from the other, a network of hinged pieces that form clippers for pruning small bushes. The shaft is a processed material that looks like polished wood. This knife is yours for $5.50.

While in a local store, I noticed a new brand of paint that has proved to be very popular since its first introduction a short while ago. It's really different, for it has a jelly-like consistency. It spreads smoothly, but will not drip or run down the brush. It's wonderful for us who like to paint up little things around the house, for after the paint tin has been opened and partly used, it can just be sealed again tightly, and the paint will neither separate or harden. In a wide range of colors, 1/16 gallon costs 95 cents; 1/4 gallon $3.15, and right up to a gallon tin, which is $11.45. It is generally believed that this type of paint will become more and more popular and that other manufacturers will put out similar products.

If there's a worn spot on the floor on the driver's side of your car, chances are it's from the heel of your shoe rubbing on the place beneath your accelerator pedal. You can buy a hard-rubber cover that fits on your accelerator, and a circular piece of attached rubber protects the place where your heel rests. These covers are selling at $1.25 each.

Call me at 2-3131 and I'll give you the names of the stores where the items may be found.

Bernadine Davis and Roy Lister Married in Cathedral Saturday

Autumn orange and white gladioli in tall standard baskets and vases were placed at the main altar in St. Andrew's Cathedral for the nuptial mass, Saturday morning, when Miss Lois Bernadine Davis became the bride of Roy Lloyd Lister. Father A. J. McDonald celebrated the mass. Organist, Miss M. McKay, accompanied the soloist, Don Mulcahy, who sang "Panis Angelicus" and "Ave Maria".

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Dalton Davis, 240 Cook Street, was given in marriage by her father.

The lovely bride entered the cathedral with three attendants, gowned in shades of blue, a perfect complement to the white of the bride's gown of lace over satin. The fitted bodice was styled with long lily point sleeves, Peter Pan collar embroidered with mother of pearl sequins, and a net yoke bordered with matching sequins. The bouffant skirt of nylon net featured front panels of lace. Her elbow length veil of illusion net was held to a bonnet headpiece covered with sequins. A bouquet of white gladioli blooms centred with white roses, stephanotis and fern, and a white prayer book completed her ensemble.

Maid of honor, Miss Patricia Sullivan, and bridesmaids, Mrs. W. McGovern and Mrs. John Jones, were gowned in net and lace. Miss Sullivan's gown featured a boat neckline, fitted bodice and accordion pleated skirt. Mrs. McGovern and Mrs. Jones wore strapless gowns with matching net jackets. All carried baskets of yellow marguerites, white Esther Reed daisies and blue delphiniums. Their bandeaux were of yellow marguerites and Esther Reed daisies.

The groom had Walter McGovern as best man, and Duff Roberge and Rod Pearce ushered guests to pews marked with autumn orange ribbons and white bells.

Tall candelabra and a cascading arrangement of pink and white sweetpeas and maidenhair fern decorated the bride's table at a reception held in the Chez Marcel. A three-tier wedding cake decorated in pink and white and topped with pink rosebuds centred the table. Bob Martin proposed the toast to the bride.

The newlyweds left for a honeymoon trip through Washington and Oregon. For traveling, the new Mrs. Lister wore a sheath and matching short-sleeved duster coat in caramel brown, with dark brown shoes and bag, and honey beige hat and gloves. Her corsage was of white gladioli centred with white rosebuds.

Mr. and Mrs. Lister will make their home at Suite 10, 240 Cook street, when they return.

Carol Anne Mallek Dainty Bride On Sunday Evening in Vancouver

(Special to the Times)

VANCOUVER—Delicate as the lovely color of a shell's lining was the tone chosen by Carol Anne Mallek for her bridal gown and those of her attendants when she became the bride of Max Fugman on Sunday evening.

Palest shell pink was her robe of silk delustrated taffeta. Its widely spreading skirt swept into a graceful train and the moulded bodice and skirt were further enriched with appliques of guipure lace encrusted with mother-of-pearl sequins. The triple-tiered illusion veil, fingertip-length, was of the same shell pink and was held in place by a crown of velvet embroidered with pink seed pearls.

The ceremony took place in Beth Israel Synagogue with Rabbi Bertram Woythaler officiating assisted by Cantor Abraham Deutsch. Choirmaster was Mr. S. Pelman.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mallek, Vancouver, and formerly of Victoria, and her groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fugman.

Miss Lorilee Mallek was her sister's maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Shelley Sperling, Miss Vivienne Stusser, Miss Judy Maslan, Seattle, and Miss Harriet Belzberg, Calgary. Taffeta fashioned the bridesmaids' waltz-length frocks with off-shoulder neckline marked with streamer bows. Long mittens of the same material matched their hats. Similar in tone and fabric was the maid of honor's dress with rounded neckline and sash ending in a bustle bow. Her hat matched her gown.

William Katz came from Calgary to be best man and ushers were Ted Harrison, Murton Davis, Ronald Katzin and Sidney Belzberg, Lethbridge. The bridal toast was proposed by Albert Koch.

A reception was held in the Hampton Hall, where a three-tier wedding cake, topped with pink roses and a horseshoe, centred the bride's table, which was decorated in pink and white. Gladioli and ferns were used to decorate guest tables. Canon Biddle proposed the toast to the bride's happiness.

Mrs. James Beach, in a dusty rose lace and chiffon over taffeta ensemble with white accessories, and Mrs. Cameron, in a copper brocade iridescent taffeta sheath gown with matching hat and black and cream accessories, assisted in receiving the guests.

The honeymoon will be spent on Vancouver Island. For travelling, the bride chose a gold sheath dress with brown accessories. She wore a white orchid corsage and the groom's gift, rhinestone earrings and necklace.

The couple will live at 4163 W. 12th Avenue, Vancouver. Fill scooped out tomatoes with a chopped ham and canned large dry butter bean mixture dressed with a horseradish seasoned mayonnaise.

Original Composition Given At a Saturday Wedding

This afternoon in St. John's Anglican Church, marriage vows were exchanged between Olive Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garth James Cameron, 261 Michigan Street, and Alan Winston Beach, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Beach of Vancouver. Canon George Biddle officiated.

During signing of the register Mrs. Rodney Webster sang "Blessed Are the Pure in Heart," a selection composed for the occasion by her husband.

The church was decorated with autumn toned gladioli. White silk acetate created the bridal gown which was styled in ballerina length with a skirt featuring a straight front and full back and a lace bodice. A chapel length veil of silk illusion was held with a silver coronet. The bouquet was of gardenias.

For "something old" the bride wore her father's gift to her mother on their wedding day—a 250-year-old silver filigree cross blessed by Pope Pius IX in 1850 which has now been used by five generations at weddings. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Miss Margaret Cameron wearing a green iridescent taffeta gown, was maid of honor, and Miss Ann Cameron in copper toned iridescent taffeta and Miss Ann Biddle in gold toned taffeta, were bridesmaids. They all wore matching hats and shoes and carried chrysanthemums in autumn colors with sheafs of wheat.

The groom's brother, Brian Beach, Vancouver, was best man and the ushers Graham Bradshaw, Kamloops, and James Leech, Victoria.

A reception was held in the Hampton Hall, where a three-tier wedding cake, topped with pink roses and a horseshoe, centred the bride's table, which was decorated in pink and white. Gladioli and ferns were used to decorate guest tables. Canon Biddle proposed the toast to the bride's happiness.

Mrs. James Beach, in a dusty rose lace and chiffon over taffeta ensemble with white accessories, and Mrs. Cameron, in a copper brocade iridescent taffeta sheath gown with matching hat and black and cream accessories, assisted in receiving the guests.

Late Summer Wedding Vows

Baskets of gladioli, Michaelmas daisies and greenery formed the floral setting for the wedding last Friday evening of Miss Verna Jean Saunders and Ronald Blair Smith in Esquimalt United Church. Rev. Douglas R. Pilkey officiated at the ceremony which united the daughter of Maj. and Mrs. Roy W. Saunders, 496 Lampson Street, and the son of Dr. and Mrs. J. Willard Smith, 401 Lampson Street. Mrs. T. Dixon was organist, playing traditional wedding music and accompanying soloist, Miss Gladwyn Hodge.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. For the ceremony she wore a bridal gown of white brocade satin styled with a bouffant ballerina-length skirt, fitted bodice and mandarin collar. Her chapel length veil of illusion net was held to a circlet of tiny blossoms. Completing her ensemble, she carried an arm bouquet of briarcliff roses and white sweet peas.

TRIO OF ATTENDANTS
She was attended by two bridesmaids and a junior bridesmaid gowned alike in light blue brocade taffeta in princess style with three-quarter length sleeves. Their hats were of matching taffeta and net, and their bouquets, of yellow marguerites. Attendants were Miss Gloria Molofy, Miss Laurel Pugh and Miss Linda Smith, sister of the groom. Flower girl, Miss Angela Park, wore a yellow nylon frock and carried a colonial bouquet of matching flowers.

Best man was Verne Smith, brother of the groom, and ushers were Donald Marshall and Ted Saunders, brother of the bride.

Maj. Seymour Park proposed the toast to the bride at the reception party which followed in the Golden Slipper Banquet Hall. Briarcliff roses and white candlesticks decorated the bride's table where the cake was centred.

For travelling, the bride wore a light blue box style suit with matching white and blue hat, beige shoes and purse, and a corsage of Pinocchio roses.

Following a honeymoon trip in the interior of B.C., the newlyweds will make their home at 3267 W. 10th Street in Vancouver.

Party Marks Wedding Day of 31 Years Ago

Among the more than 300 friends who attended the garden party given by Maj. Gen. G. R. Pearkes and Mrs. Pearkes at their Tattersall drive home last Saturday afternoon were a few who knew that the gathering marked a special occasion in the lives of the host and hostess.

It was their 31st wedding anniversary.

On Aug. 26, 1925, in St. Paul's Naval and Garrison Church, Esquimalt, Miss Blytha Copeman and George R. Pearkes were married. Rev. (now Canon) T. M. Hughes officiated and the bridesmaids were Miss Betty Copeman and Miss Hilda Pearkes, sister of the groom.

"It was a very windy day," Mrs. Pearkes smilingly reminisced on Saturday. "We had a garden reception and the refreshment marquee blew down. However, the wedding cake was safe and we cut it in the traditional manner."

Canon Hughes was among the guests at last Saturday afternoon's anniversary garden party, also Mrs. Pearkes' father, Mr. W. F. U. Copeman. A bridesmaid of 31 years ago was there—now Mrs. H. G. Bishop (Betty Copeman). Gen. Pearkes' mother, Mrs. L. Pearkes and his sister, Miss Hilda Pearkes were unable to attend the party.

Among other guests who remembered the wedding were Mrs. Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Bullen, Major G. Sisman, Miss Frances Price, Mr. G. U. Copeman, Mrs. Rex Gibson, Col. R. L. Mitchell (it was Col. Mitchell who tied the knot on the honeymoon car), and Miss Ethel Bruce.

Calottes' Party

Alderman Lily Wilson will officially open the garden party arranged by St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society Calottes, at the home of Mrs. David Cooper, "Glenraig," 1988 Fernside Road, Gordon Head, on Wednesday at 2.30 p.m. The affair will continue open until 5 p.m. Entertainment will be provided by the Greater Victoria Pipe Band and by the Adeline Duncan dancers. There will be home cooking and candy stalls. Proceeds will be used for the building fund. A special bus will leave the depot at 2.15 p.m. for the garden party. Regular buses leave the city at the quarter after the hour.

Wedding Guests

Among guests who attended the Saturday morning wedding of Miss Bernadine Davis and Mr. Roy Lister in St. Andrew's Cathedral were many from out-of-town. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kirk, Regina; Miss Stella Kirk and Mrs. Cecilia Mitchell, Saskatoon; Mr. and Mrs. James Lister, Mr. R. M. Kyle and Mrs. Mary Voichos, Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. Dave Lister, Seattle; and Mr. John Lister, Campbell River.

FOR NEHRU'S BENEFIT

Ike Pinpoints Red Atom Testing Site

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—President Eisenhower's announcement that Russia has resumed nuclear weapons tests—possibly including a hydrogen blast—stood today as a challenge to the Soviet to publicize such tests in advance to reduce danger.

Eisenhower made public an Atomic Energy Commission report advising him that last Friday Russia detonated "a nuclear device with a yield less than a megaton." A megaton blast would have force equivalent to 1,000,000 tons of TNT.

In announcing Soviet resumption of tests, Eisenhower said in a statement he wants to emphasize again "the necessity for effective international control of atomic energy and such measures of adequately safeguarded disarmament as are now feasible."

REVEAL BLAST SITE
Eisenhower's report also officially made known for the first time the site of the Russian proving grounds. The report to Eisenhower by AEC Chairman Lewis L. Strauss said:

"This proving ground, where most of the Soviet tests have occurred, is located in southwest Siberia, north of India, Afghanistan, and Pakistan, and west of China. In addition to this area the Soviets have also utilized the area of the Barents Sea, part of the Arctic Ocean, for nuclear testing."

Mention of the area being north of India was significant in the light of neutralist India's criticism of U.S. atomic tests.

It pointed up that under the Soviet policy of secrecy about such tests, adjacent areas get no advance warning of radioactive fall-out danger.

PGE SPECIAL STALLED SLIDE COVERS TRACKS

All Published Before, Says Herald Lawyer

Senator Farris Gives Evidence

VANCOUVER (CP)—Counsel for the Vancouver Herald said today practically everything the newspaper printed last Tuesday about David Sturdy's charges against former Lands Minister R. E. Sommers had been published before.

Senator J. W. deB. Farris, Q.C. of British Columbia was testifying in the contempt action brought by Alfred Bull, counsel for Mr. Sommers, against the Herald, the Vancouver Sun and B.C. Progressive Conservative leader Deane Finlayson.

The contempt application resulted from an election campaign speech Mr. Finlayson made last Monday in which he read portions of Mr. Sturdy's defence statement containing charges of misconduct against the former minister.

Senator Farris said that on June 22, in the B.C. Court of Appeal, Mr. Bull himself had referred to three lumber companies and specific sums of money in seeking unsuccessfully to have portions of the defence statement struck from the record.

NOT MENTIONED
Mr. Bull, he said, "knew it was bound to come out in the papers the next day, and nothing was even said about contempt, libel or anything else."

The court then adjourned for lunch.

Earlier, Mr. Bull outlined the legal history of the Sturdy-Sommers case to Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson and said:

"In these cases I do not as a rule take any personal part in the matter."

"But in this case some of the politicians have accused me of being a government lawyer and, by inference, some of the newspapers have even accused me of delaying the proceedings of the law because of the elections."

"I am not a government solicitor. I am solely counsel for Sommers and my one desire is to obtain for Mr. Sommers a fair trial of this issue which involves a criminal offence."

"In trying to obtain that object, I have not been influenced in the slightest by anything related to the election."

"I have never denied the right of the parties any criticism of the government's handling of what is called the 'Sommers-Sturdy affair'. That I would say is perfectly legitimate."

WARNING GIVEN

Mr. Bull then read a letter dated Aug. 14 which was sent to Mr. Finlayson warning him of his position should he refer in his scheduled speech to the case.

The letter said that anything Finlayson might say with regard to the facts of the case would be in question of the rule of contempt. Any discussion of the fact whether set out in pleadings or not was bound to reach the jurors.

In the letter, Mr. Bull warned Finlayson that if he transgressed the rules in the slightest he had instructions from

IN THE WINNERS' CIRCLE

Laughren Wins Mass Swim After Battle With Muir

By DENNY BOYD

Big Ben Laughren won $1,000 and further claim to his title of Endurance King of Juan de Fuca Strait Sunday in the first annual Junior Chamber of Commerce Mass Swim.

Laughren, 270 pounds and a 34-year-old father of three, stayed in the Strait waters for 10 hours, 15 minutes to outlast nine other starters and pick up first money by the margin of seven minutes over Saanich's popular swimming surveyor, Bill Muir, who lasted 10 hours, eight minutes and collected $750 for second prize.

Third money of $500 went to former Torontonians Janice White for a nine-hour, 56-minute swim while Billie Benedict made a strong showing and collected $250 for her six-hour, five-minute effort.

None of the other six starters was able to last more than 3½ hours, being forced to leave the water for a variety of reasons, running from the cold to nausea and cramps.

Johnny Lacoursiere of Montreal was the only entrant who did not show up for the race.

Competitors and observers alike were unanimous in their praise of the organizational job done by the Jaycees and their co-sponsors, radio station CKDA.

The swim was well-run, went off without a hitch and officials already are making plans for a bigger and better swim next year.

As none of the swimmers succeeded in crossing the Strait, the entire purse of $6,000 was not awarded. There is a surplus of $3,500 which will be reserved for next year as the

MARILYN SET TO HELP CLIFF

TORONTO (CP)—Swimmer Marilyn Bell flew home today to root for The Big Chief, the nickname for marathon swimmer Cliff Lumsden, who is entered in the $29,000 Lake Ontario marathon scheduled for today.

As she stepped from her plane at Malton Airport, she had little to say about her own conquest last week of Juan de Fuca Strait.

Smiling happily she said she is eager to get into a boat and accompany Cliff in the marathon.

Start of a pot that may be hoisted to $15,000.

Next year's swim may be scheduled to fit in with the Atlantic City swim and the CNE swim in Lake Ontario. Such scheduling could make Victoria a worthwhile stop for competitors taking part in the other two big professional swims and create a swimming "gold trail" across the continent.

Jaycees will be the hosts tonight for a banquet and prize-giving ceremony for the swimmers at McEwen's Restaurant.

Big Ben, who has tried 11 times to make a complete Strait crossing, won his $1,000 purse on his tremendous endurance rather than his swimming ability.

Ben was far back in the early hours of the swim as the speedier entrants piled up leads.

But, inexorably, the Strait began to assert itself and flares streaking into the sky marked the toll that the swim was taking.

Under the pre-arranged rules, the swim could not be counted as official until it had passed the six-hour mark.

When that deadline was reached, four swimmers were in the water. Muir, making good time with his steady breaststroke, was maintaining

Inaugural Run Held Up; Premier Waits For Clearing Crews

By NORMAN CRIBBENS, Times Legislative Reporter

ABOARD PGE INAUGURAL TRAIN—The blaring of a brass band had scarcely died away this forenoon when the Pacific Great Eastern's inaugural train over the 40-mile $10,500,000 North Vancouver-Squamish extension was halted by a rock and mud slide.

The slide, at Horseshoe Bay, 17 miles northwest of Vancouver, covered hundreds of feet of shiny new track.

At 1 p.m., 40 men, two tractors and a crane started to clear the blockade. PGE officials, who would say only that "these things are to be expected," tentatively set 3:30 p.m. for departure of the first section from Horseshoe Bay.

The blockade was reported only a few minutes after Premier W. A. C. Bennett had adressed a crowd of 3,000 at North Vancouver who came to watch three PGE inaugural specials pull out.

There were 300 guests aboard the trains. A battalion of newspaper, radio and TV men covering the inaugural run were 18 miles along the railroad when their special train was stopped because of the slide.

Premier Bennett's train was still at North Vancouver terminal when the slide came down.

Premier Speaks in Pelting Rain

The press train, which left at 9:30 a.m., got a rousing send-off from the crowd who had gathered to hear Premier Bennett's speech inaugurating the new railway link.

They waved flags and handkerchiefs, rent the air with noisemakers, and shouted farewells.

Just a few minutes earlier, C. R. Crysdale, consulting engineer with the PGE since it was begun in 1912, drove a copper spike marking completion of the last link in the Vancouver-Squamish section.

Premier Bennett, in black hat and grey overcoat, stood by, smiling triumphantly as with a hefty hammer stroke Mr. Crysdale drove the spike home.

Immediately afterwards rain fell heavily and many ran for shelter. But not Mr. Bennett.

"Ladies and gentlemen, boys and girls," he said, "this is a great day for us all—for you in North Vancouver, for those in the great north and for this government, which has fearlessly pushed this railroad through to completion."

"Next year we will have the railway running into the Peace River itself. And I hope that before too many years have gone by we shall be able, in cooperation with other governments on this continent, to extend the line into Alaska as well."

"This is the largest railway construction in all of North America in the last 30 years. It is paying great dividends now."

Today's landslide may upset City of Prince George's giant celebration Tuesday night and Wednesday to mark completion of the inaugural PGE run.

The premier and members of his cabinet were to ride in a parade behind 100 torchbearers through the city immediately after their scheduled arrival at 10:30 p.m. Tuesday.

On Wednesday, the premier is to turn the first sod for a $1,500,000 provincial building at Prince George before motoring along the route of the Peace River extension of the PGE to Dawson Creek and Fort St. John to attend Social Credit rallies.

$20 MILLION PULP MILL FOR PEACE RIVER AREA

VANCOUVER (CP)—Proposals for construction of a $20,000,000 pulp mill in the Peace River region of northeastern British Columbia were revealed today by Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston to guests travelling in the inaugural Pacific Great Eastern train from North Vancouver to Prince George.

Mr. Williston declined to identify the interested parties except to say they were large B.C. firms already engaged in the forest industry.

WRIGHT DESIGNING MILE-HIGH BUILDING

SPRING GREEN, Wis. (AP)—Architect Frank Lloyd Wright said Saturday he is working on plans for a 510-storey, mile-high office building he hopes will be built on Chicago's lakefront.

If the structure becomes a reality, it will be the highest in the world, dwarfing such goliaths as the Empire State Building and the Chrysler Building in New York.

The world's tallest building now is the Empire State, measuring 1,250 feet and 1,472 feet with its TV antenna. The Chrysler building is 1,046 feet high.

Wright, world-famed, 87-year-old architect, said the building would house 100,000 employees of the State of Illinois, Cook County and the City of Chicago.

ACROSS THE PROVINCE

Runaway Bus Crushes BCE Driver to Death

(The Canadian Press)

VANCOUVER—A 43-year-old B.C. Electric bus driver was crushed to death between two buses here late Saturday.

William Knight died when he tried to stop an unattended runaway bus from striking a second bus parked ahead.

The accident occurred at the Kootenay Street loop, a transit-turn-around point in the city's east end.

Seven other persons died in B.C. mishaps during the week-end.

Three persons died in the wreckage of the crash between a car and light truck 28 miles from Prince George, while a fourth died in hospital. Two others were seriously injured.

The victims were identified as David Ellis, 27, of nearby Giscome; Albert Thompson, 17, and Merle Velsch, 23, both of Sylvania; and Leo J. Guillet, 40, of Prince George, father of eight.

In hospital are Mrs. Guillet and Joseph Raymond of Montreal.

Mrs. Angela d'Appalonia, 38, of Coleman, Alta., died from injuries suffered Friday when the car in which she and her husband, Edward, were travelling, collided with a loaded lumber truck at Crossness.

Stephen Szilapka, 38, of Prince Rupert, died in hospital Saturday of injuries received Aug. 19 when struck by a car that fled the scene.

Mrs. Bertha Lavina Jensen, 47, of Vancouver, was found dead in her gas-filled apartment. Three burners on the stove were turned on but unlit.

FIRE SWEEPS BIG STORE
SALMON ARM—Fire swept a department store here Saturday despite the efforts of 100 volunteer firemen from this town and nearby communities.

There was no estimate of the exact loss but the two-story frame Safe Ltd. store was insured for $80,000, and fixtures and stock were valued at $155,000.

PILOT UNHURT IN CRASH
QUESNEL—A pilot was uninjured when his plane crashed and was wrecked 30 miles west of here Saturday.

The pilot, believed on a fishing trip from Seattle, reported the crash of his amphibious aircraft to civil air authorities.

He said he was unharmed and would remain with the wreck near Alexis Creek.

FERRY SERVICE TO END
VANCOUVER—The motor vessel Bonabelle, for many years in ferry service between Vancouver and West Vancouver, will make its last trip from Horseshoe Bay to Squamish Sept. 4.

It is bowing out in favor of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, which starts a passenger service to Squamish today.

THREE FLEE FIRE
VANCOUVER—Three persons escaped with minor injuries Sunday when fire raced through the third floor of an apartment block here.

Mrs. M. Holka, about 45, leaped three stories to the ground to escape the flames. She was taken to hospital suffering from burns to her arms and back.

A couple identified only as Mr. and Mrs. Willis, 70 and 69, also suffered minor injuries.

THIEVES GET $1,073
VANCOUVER—Thieves escaped with $1,073 in cash, cheques and merchandise from three Vancouver firms early on Saturday.

A cafe manager told police he lost $600 in cash and $50 worth of cigarettes, a fur store lost a stole worth $293, and another store's cashbox containing $159 in cash and cheques were taken.

a 100-yard lead over Laughren and 300 yards back, Billie Benedict was leading Janice White by 30 yards.

$250 PRIZE

Billie, fighting leg cramps in an effort to last out the required time, passed the six-hour mark and came out five minutes later, assured of her $250 prize.

The many accompanying boats closed in around Bill and Ben, fighting a private duel of their own, with Janice, swimming a variety of strokes while feeding on balogna sandwiches, remained a quarter-mile behind the men.

By 3.30, the swimmers were almost abreast of Race Rocks and Muir was ahead of Laughren by 200 yards, with Janice a half-mile back. The water was flat and a warm sun shone down.

At 4.30, Ben made his bid. He put on a spurt, churning the water with his overhand crawl, and succeeded in pulling into first place for the first time in nine hours.

Laughren managed to stay just a few lengths ahead of Muir and the swim settled down to becoming a battle of nerves rather than a race.

At 5.22, Janice came out. She explained, "I wasn't making any progress and I knew I couldn't catch up for a first or second-place finish."

Thirteen minutes later, Muir signalled that he was quitting.

IN GOOD SHAPE

He was still in excellent shape and said, "Ben and I could have stayed out there all day, waiting each other out. But we weren't making any progress towards getting to Port Angeles so I made the decision. I wasn't going to bust myself for the sake of an extra $250."

Laughren stayed in another seven minutes, just to make it official, and then he too came out of the water, 7 1/2 miles from Port Angeles.

Marilyn Bell started the swim from Horseshoe Bay at 7.20 a.m. with a pistol shot and the 10 swimmers waded into the water, lined themselves up with their individual tender boats, and settled down to the grind.

Bill Goll, touted by Gus Ryder as the man to beat if he could take the cold, opened an early lead with his beautifully perfected crawl.

The first flare went up after 57 minutes as Calgary's Robert Masslow gave in to cold and cramps and one minute later, Victorian Allan Small, with cramps in his legs, quit his orthodox rolling sidestroke, and left the swim.

Goll, no stranger to marathon swimming, was forced to give up his lead after one hour, 25 minutes as the cold penetrated his thick layer of grease compound and he was hauled out, shivering violently.

Then it was Anita Long, who had struck out on her own course and then, Joan Biddle, who had assumed the lead until she, too, came out after two hours, 58 minutes. Anna Burlan, sickened by exhaust fumes, stuck it out for almost 3 1/2 hours until forced to quit and that set the stage for the four money winners.

After the swim, Laughren,

... CONTEMPT

his client to take steps immediately to have him cited for contempt of court.

Mr. Bull read a shorthand report of Mr. Finlayson's speech at North Vancouver.

In it he read paragraph two of the statement for defence of barrister David Sturdy and the charges outlined in it. They were:

(a) On Sept. 1, 1953... paid the sum of $2,500 to the plaintiff Sommers. (Mr. Bull explained that a space was left in the reading to indicate the name of the person said to have paid the money.)

(b) On Feb. 5, 1954... paid the sum of $1,000 to the plaintiff Sommers.

(c) On March 4, 1954... paid the sum of $2,000 to the plaintiff Sommers.

(f) On April 23, 1954... paid the sum of $1,000... which latter sum on May 17, 1954, was paid to the plaintiff Sommers.

(g) In Nov., 1953, paid for and financed a visit by plaintiff and certain members of his family to Toronto and Ottawa.

(h) The payments of $2,500, $1,000, $2,000 and $1,000 and the expenses in (g) were incurred as consideration for the performance of the plaintiff's duties in issuing and awarding forest management licences.

Then Mr. Bull continued to quote from Mr. Finlayson's speech, saying:

"These are the charges. They are of the utmost seriousness, that Sommers accepted over a six-month period $6,500 and a free trip east for himself and family for consideration in awarding forest management licences."

Mr. Bull added that Mr. Finlayson had said the allegations were before the court and warned his listeners not to judge them.

Mr. Bull said these were the words complained of and despite any direction Mr. Finlayson gave to his listeners not to judge the truth, he submitted there was material for contempt action.

"It seems to me there are two answers to that. First that it was irrelevant what he said in that way as a warning, and second, if he didn't mean his listeners to accept them as statements of fact, why did he make them?"

Mr. Bull said Mr. Finlayson would not have made the statements except that he wanted the public to know that criminal charges had been made against the former minister of the Crown.

He said the newspapers had merely reported what Mr. Finlayson said and there was no comment on the reports. Mr. Bull said he saw little difference in what was done by the three parties cited.

He said if they were found guilty, there was the question of penalty. In Mr. Finlayson's case, there was a clear warning that should be considered, and the situation was also known to the papers.

Mr. Bull continued: "It is not a case of the plaintiff here having to prove that what was done did in fact interfere with the course of justice."

"The question is whether it tends to interfere, and if it does, then it is contempt of court."

"I stress this not because it tends to prejudice the public, but because of the tendency to prejudice jurors. If a lie is read over and over again people will believe it."

"If every day from now until this trial is heard people get up and read these particulars of bribery—a criminal offence—they are bound to think there must be some truth in them.

"If newspapers can go on reprinting which they would do if this application fails, where is that going to lead us?"

"My client knew that was coming up because Mr. Finlayson was kind enough to publish the fact that he was going to read the particulars. Mr. Sommers then had two courses left to him."

"One was to do what he has done, to put this before the court to have this contempt punished, which would, I think, put an end to any more of this."

"But supposing he did nothing. Then, of course, they would just proceed with impunity and they would all get up and read out and roll over their tongues what it has been said that Sommers did."

"And the newspapers, having been given the blessing of the court, would do the same."

"What then could Sommers do? Could he stay quiet and let this repetition go on day after day in the newspapers and on public platforms?"

"Enter the fray and give his side of it. So then, in reality, we would have a trial by newspaper."

"Sneaking as counsel for Mr. Sommers, I submit that would be an intolerable situation. If Mr. Sommers is guilty of accepting bribes then the action must come before the courts and be properly tried, and the public will know he is guilty and he will have to suffer the consequences."

"The case should be tried before the court, not by newspapers or by ex parte statements from public speakers who are, after all, only relating what Mr. Sturdy said in his defence and this was not under oath."

Canadian Newsmen Expelled

(CP and BUP Dispatches)

TORONTO—William Stevenson, Toronto Star correspondent expelled from Egypt Sunday, said in a dispatch today that police had been seeking him for 24 hours since he challenged a key man in the Egyptian propaganda department to deny he was a former Nazi.

Stevenson said the man was Prof. Johann von Leers, an assistant to Dr. Joseph Goebbels during the Nazi regime in Germany and who fled after the war to Argentina to work for the Peron administration. The Star said the professor admitted his identity.

Stevenson, Eileen Travis of Buffalo, N.Y., correspondent for the London Daily Mail, and Ann Sharpley of the London Evening Standard were ordered out of Egypt yesterday in the biggest crackdown against the press since the beginning of the Suez Canal crisis.

The Toronto star correspondent, whose home is in Hong Kong, said on his arrival at Rome from Cairo, that he had a one-hour interview with the propagandist who "graduated from Hitler to Peron of Argentina to Nasser."

"He was a former key figure in the Nazi propaganda machine of Dr. Goebbels and had been a hunted man for 10 years."

"At our interview the professor said Nasser was better than Hitler because Hitler wanted to do everything in his own lifetime, while Nasser was prepared to take his time."

"The Egyptians had denied his existence," Stevenson said. "But when they saw Ann Sharpley and me leaving his place, the trouble started."

CAIRO (AP)—Egypt will reply tomorrow on the Menzies committee request for talks on the Suez Canal crisis, an official Egyptian source said today.

Usually reliable sources said they understand Nasser will agree to meet the committee in Cairo with the proviso that Egypt is not obligated to accept the plan.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

HELP US, O GOD, to be honestly ourselves and devoted to Thy service. If we limp, may we limp toward Thee. If we stammer, may we stammer a word of witness to Christ our Savior. If we are a bit peculiar, find a little crooked space, O God, where we may fit into the building of Thy kingdom; through Jesus Christ. Amen.

Lake Ontario Solo Ends After 28 Miles

NIAGARA ON THE LAKE, Ont. (CP)—Marathon swimmer Jim Woods of Candler N.C., attempting to swim Lake Ontario, was pulled from the water after covering 28 of the 32 miles to Toronto's waterfront.

He jumped in the water here at 12:05 a.m. today (9:05 p.m. PDT) Sunday and was pulled out at 2:52 p.m. (11:52 PDT) about four miles from his goal. It was his fourth unsuccessful attempt in two years.

He had decided to make the attempt alone when the Lake Ontario marathon swim committee did not select him to take part in its race across the lake, scheduled to begin today.

Several other swimmers also uninvited to enter the race by the Lake Ontario marathon swim committee, threatened to attempt the swim.

Meanwhile the threat of wet, windy weather today caused a three-hour postponement of the marathon swimming race across Lake Ontario.

Scheduled to send 10 screened swimmers thrashing across the 32-mile lake from Niagara-on-the-Lake at 3 p.m. EDT. (12 noon Victoria time) for $29,000 in cash prizes, it was postponed at noon to 6 p.m. (3 p.m. Victoria time).

The swim committee has ruled that in the event of unfavorable weather the race will be postponed day-to-day till Wednesday and then cancelled.

my side of the story

A Continuing Series
By THE DUCHESS OF WINDSOR

In due course Mr. Chamberlain arrived in Paris and came to see David at the Meurice. I was not present at the interview.

Afterwards David told me that Mr. Chamberlain had been cordial, interested, but non-committal. At the conclusion of their talk the prime minister said: "As His Majesty's servant I shall be very glad to discuss the matter with my colleagues, and, if desirable, with His Majesty. As soon as we have examined the matter I shall advise you."

David waited hopefully. Weeks passed. No word came from 10 Downing Street or from the palace.

David finally made inquiries. All that he could ever find out was that the government considered that the question of David's returning to Britain was a private matter between him and the King, and the palace considered it a matter in which the government should tender advice, and there things lay.

In one of his rare resorts to cynicism David remarked one day: "I'm afraid we'll be too old to cross the channel before my brother and the PM stop bating the ball back and forth."

Aside from his blithe assumption that the logistics of life would take care of themselves, I discovered that David had endearing qualities that were rare in my experience. There was not a mean bone in his body or a snide thought in his brain. Gossip rolled off him like rain off a slate roof.

He had an extraordinary resiliency of the spirit, and I came to realize that this was an expression of his sunny disposition, his refusal to believe ill of anyone.

Perhaps at a critical time for him this quality was his salvation; believing as he does that all human experience should be a challenge, it was impossible for him ever to think that any change in circumstances could be a defeat.

The one fundamental lack in his life was the absence of a home. As David was increasingly on the telephone to London, he spent more and more time listening to the news broadcasts from London, Paris, Berlin, and Washington. And then in late August came the stunning announcement of the Russo-German non-aggression pact, to be followed in a matter of days by the German invasion of Poland.

As David listened to the radio bulletins telling of the German smash across the Polish frontier, he suddenly said, "This is beginning to smell like 1914 all over again."

September 3, 1939, was a hot and humid day, even for the Cote d'Azur at that season. The morning news broadcasts over the French radio left no doubt of the imminent disintegration of the Polish forces.

Convinced that Britain and France would be at war with Germany in a matter of hours,

Victoria Daily Times 23
MONDAY, AUG. 27, 1956

David tried to reach his friends in London, but the French telephone circuits were hopelessly clogged.

Giving up the struggle, he shrugged, saying: "There's nothing we can do from here right now. I'm sure I shall hear from my brother the moment any decision is taken. Let's go for a swim."

"Fruity" Metcalfe was staying with us. Just before noon, as we all started for our swim, a servant hurried after David to tell him that the British ambassador was calling from Paris. "Fruity" and I went on.

About 10 minutes later, David joined us. Walking straight to the edge of the pool, he said in a quiet voice, "Great Britain has just declared war on Germany." And he dived into the pool.

33 years of misery... ASTHMA and Chronic Bronchitis

If bronchial asthma sometimes makes you feel like a human wreck, see what happened to Mr. H. J. Reeder, Box 321, Armstrong, B.C. He tells us: "When I was 45 years of age, I began to suffer from asthma and chronic bronchitis. At 78 years of age, I had not found the medicine I needed to get relief from attacks of coughing, wheezing and gasping for breath. Then I was introduced to Templeton's RAZ-MAH by a neighbour, and am thankful indeed to have learned about this comforting relief. Since using RAZ-MAH I breathe far more easily... sleep comfortably and am able to take pleasure in life again... get about without difficulty." Enjoy quick relief from chronic bronchitis and asthma with Templeton's RAZ-MAH—only 7c and $1.50 at drug counters. B-116

Smart 'n' Striped

These sport coats, in the young men's section on the Third Floor are real eye-poppers and show stoppers. The lightweight, lined-like weave and the skeleton lining make for coolness, but the stripes—hotter than a firecracker, for sure. ### Wardrobe Stretchers
